British Join In Big Offensive To Drive Axis Out

Navy Joins Air Forces In Attacks On Italian Ports

Naval Shells Carry War More Acutely Into Italian Mainland Today

YANKS ADVANCE IN SICILY ATTACKS

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 2.—Naval shells roaring into harbors and railway lines along strategic points of the lower mainland carried the war more acutely into Italy today while new gains were reported on the Sicilian battlefield and Rome still wavered between honorable surrender and intensified war.

(Editor's Note: The diplomatic correspondent of the London Evening News said that within the next fortnight, Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio will be forced either to ask terms of peace or resign. If he resigns, he will open the way for formation of a new government prepared to quit the war as the majority of Italians want, the newspaper said. There was no foundation, however, for reports Badoglio had put forward proposals for Italy to withdraw from the war into neutrality.)

Reminder To Italians
The new naval bombardments, coinciding with renewed aerial attacks on the harbor of Naples and the Cape Di Chino airfield, not only served to remind Italians that the fury of war was approaching the mainland but also helped to cut off communications with Sicily entirely. The railway over the river Oliva, mainline feedline into the Messina terminus, was heavily bombed. Appearance of American naval forces on the sea flank of the United States Seventh Army considerably aided the Yanks in throwing back the Germans along the north coast, where strong Axis positions are impeding rapid progress.

The Germans carried out extensive road demolitions along the north coast, compelling American engineers frequently to blast thru

PA NEW OBSERVES

A slight decrease in the births was noted at the New Castle hospital for the month of July, with 51 infants being born, 26 being boys, and 25 girls. Last month the total number of births at the hospital was 63.

"I've got 64 pounds of coffee, and since rationing of coffee has ended, I want to trade it in for something else", a Montana woman told her grocer the other day. The grocer's reply, we are told, cost him a customer.

According to the Berlin radio, the only clothes to be made in Germany after September 30 will be pilots uniforms and mourning clothes.

Sunday evening there was lots of automobile traffic going along East Washington street, some of the cars at high speed. One car came up the hill so fast almost running down an old gentleman near West avenue.

According to reports, victory gardens around the city and county are now netting large harvests of vegetables. And most garden owners are making sure that none of the crops go to waste. Canning is under way in many homes, with the vegetables being prepared for winter.

Smashing Bomb Attack On Rumanian Oil Fields Is Heavy Blow To Nazis

By W. P. SAPHIRE
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

CAIRO, Aug. 2.—At least 51 Axis fighters were shot down yesterday when they attempted to intercept a blistering 60-second raid by 175 to 200 American Liberators bombers that devastated the seven principal refineries at the huge Rumanian Ploesti oil fields.

Middle East headquarters today announced that 20 of the four-motored bombers were shot down and a number of others have not yet returned from the raid, which was declared to have "materially affected the course of the war."

Bomb From Low Altitude
Bombing from altitudes of 100 to 500 feet at 200 miles an hour, the huge warbirds poured nearly 300 tons of explosives into the heart of the target area in what was officially described as "the biggest low-level mass raid in aviation annals."

Lieut. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of the Ninth U. S. Army Air Force based in the Middle East, declared the crippling attack on the plants producing one-third of Germany's oil supplies may have

Russian Gains Peril Nazis In Defense Of Orel

Vital Orel-Bryansk Railroad Near Besieged Town Now Menaced

MAY CUT OFF BIG FORCE OF GERMANS

By NATALIA RENE
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Aug. 2.—German forces defending the main Nazi base at Orel fought desperately today to stem a new advance by Red army units menacing the vital Orel-Bryansk railroad northwest of besieged Orel.

Late dispatches from the battlefield indicated that Russian gains in the fight to sever rail communications between Orel and the companion base of Bryansk to the northwest had narrowed the neck of the Orel sack to almost 30 miles.

Might Cut Off 250,000

Should Soviet troops northwest and southwest of the doomed Orel bastion effect a junction, the estimated force of 250,000 Germans bitterly defending the pivot base would be completely cut off on all sides.

News of the latest threat to the Orel-Bryansk railroad closely followed an official Moscow communique announcing gains of five to 10 miles.

Launch Bataan, Aircraft Carrier

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 2.—To Uncle Sam's ever-growing might on the sea today was added the U. S. S. Bataan, first aircraft carrier named for an American campaign in the present war.

Among the dignitaries attending the brief launching ceremonies at the New York Shipbuilding Corporation was Sergio Osmena, vice president of the Philippines, who declared:

"The valor of the American and Philippine fighting men who battled through the long months on Bataan will serve as an inspiration to the men of this fine new ship."

St. Louis Mayor Among Victims

Ten Killed In Crash Of Glider In St. Louis, Mo., Sunday Afternoon

NOTABLES AMONG DEATH TOLL LIST

By ROBERT A. HEREFORD
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 2—A board of seven air corps officers today were investigating the spectacular crash of an army glider at Lambert-St. Louis municipal airport late yesterday afternoon, which claimed the lives of Mayor William D. Becker of St. Louis and nine others, including a prominent airplane manufacturer, and other civic notables.

The cargo type glider plummeted to earth from a distance of about 2,000 feet when one of its wings crumpled shortly after it was cut loose from the tow plane. The fuselage with its cargo of notables crashed to the field within full view of a stunned crowd of about five thousand persons who had gathered to watch the first public demonstration of the St. Louis made glider.

Dead In Crash

The dead in addition to Mayor Becker are:
Major William B. Robertson, president of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, maker of the glider, and an original backer of the Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's trans-Atlantic flight.

Thomas N. Dymart, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, and also a backer of the Lindbergh flight.

Lieutenant Colonel Paul H. Hazleton, of the Army Air Forces.

Judge Henry L. Mueller, presiding judge of the St. Louis county court.

Max H. Doyne, St. Louis director of public utilities.

Charles L. Cunningham, St. Louis deputy comptroller.

Harold A. Krueger, vice-president and general manager of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation.

Captain Milton C. Klugh, of Indianapolis, pilot of the glider and Private J. Davis.

Lieut. Col. G. R. Johnston, Army Air Forces public relations officer in St. Louis informed reporters after preliminary investigation that the cause of the accident had not been immediately determined.

"Every possibility will be thoroughly investigated," Col. Johnston said. Asked if the possibility of sabotage would be investigated, the officer replied in the affirmative but declared that preliminary investigation showed no evidence of sabotage.

All persons in the glider were parachuted, Col. Johnston revealed, adding that the passengers also had been strapped in with safety belts.

Shortly before 4 p. m. yesterday afternoon a smiling group, including city officials and civic leaders climbed into the big CG-4A monoplane ship and were whisked into the air on a demonstration flight at Lambert St. Louis municipal airport. A few minutes later the glider and its elite cargo was a tangled mass in the center of the airport field.

A crowd of five thousand persons, gathered for the demonstration, were the stunned witnesses of the spectacular plunge. Among them were Mrs. Margaret Louise Becker, the mayor's wife and the wives and relatives of a number of the other victims. Mrs. Becker, in fact had been scheduled to make the flight with her husband, according to announcements to newspapers but army officers declined to permit her to go because of regulations against women making such flights.

NO WITHDRAWALS IN STATE PRIMARY

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Aug. 2—The State Elections Bureau reported today there were no withdrawals among the 101 candidates seeking the Democratic and Republican nominations for 49 judicial posts at the September 14 primary election. The deadline for withdrawing nominating petitions expired July 31.

The 98 successful primary candidates will seek election on November 2 to 48 posts on county courts and one on the state supreme court, where the only statewide contest finds incumbent Court Judge Claude T. Reno, of Allegheny, Republican, opposed by Orphans Court Judge Curtis Bok, of Philadelphia, Democrat. Neither has primary election opposition.

STEAL CHRYSLER CAR

Dave Smith, Smithfield street, reported to police today his Chrysler, state license 8689 (red tag 189253) was stolen from Cochran Way near the Fountain Inn Sunday afternoon.

Might as well pension senators. If one is repudiated, Washington finds a job for him, so the public has to support him, anyway.

Deaths of the Day

Mrs. Amos A. Young

Mrs. Freda A. Young, aged 27 years, of R. D. 5, New Castle, died at the Jameson Memorial hospital, Sunday morning at 11:45 o'clock, following complications.

Mrs. Young was born in New Castle, April 23, 1916, where she lived her entire life. She was a faithful member of the Hoover Heights tabernacle.

In addition to her husband, Amos A. Young, she leaves a son, Walter Leroy Young, a daughter, Edna Manessia Young. Also surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Weatherly; two sisters, Mrs. Alice Isaac and Mrs. Betty Hiler, of New Castle; three brothers, Frank C. Weatherly; Harry E. Weatherly, of the U. S. Army, stationed in Mississippi; and Walter W. Weatherly.

The body is at the Darrell Burke funeral home, North Jefferson street, where the family will greet friends this evening and Tuesday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the funeral home, and interment will follow in Savannah cemetery.

Mrs. Henry J. Thomas

Word is received here of the death of Mrs. Henry J. Thomas of Baltimore, Md., former New Castle resident, who passed away Saturday, July 31, at 12:30 p. m. at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Richard Polz, Ridge avenue, Halthrope, Baltimore, Md.

The deceased, born in Swansea, South Wales, was the eldest daughter of the late John J. and Sarah Walters, who also resided here. Mrs. Thomas was preceded in death by her husband, Henry J. Thomas, in 1928, who was in the grocery business in New Castle and Cleveland, O., and two sisters, Mrs. Llewellyn Thomas, who resided on South Mercer street, and Mrs. Thomas L. Morgan of Morris street, this city.

Survivors are her daughter, Mrs. Richard Polz of Baltimore, three grandchildren, two sisters, Mrs. William C. Price and Mrs. James M. Hastings of California, and four nieces of New Castle, Mrs. Carl Wallace of Wilmington avenue, Mr. Earl H. Pearsall of Croton avenue, Mrs. Fred K. Wallace of Oakwood avenue and Mrs. David W. Kay, Jr., of Croton avenue.

The body will be brought to New Castle Tuesday morning and funeral services will be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Joseph Leyde mortuary.

James McCaslin Gibson

James McCaslin Gibson, aged 84 years, of Hickory township, R. D. 4, died at his home Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock following a lingering illness.

Mr. Gibson was born in Shenango township on February 13, 1859, son of George and Matilda McCaslin Gibson. The deceased was a member of the Neshannock U. P. church. He was married to Mrs. Jennie Armstrong Gibson for the past 56 years, who survives.

In addition to his wife, he leaves the following children: Mrs. Gula Martin of Volant, Mrs. Mamie Dicks of New Castle, Helen Gibson at home, Mrs. Gertrude Houk of Scott township and Mrs. Lois Siskaine of New Castle, R. D. 4. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Cora McCune of Warren, O.; 20 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

A daughter, Mrs. Jessie Kildoo, preceded him in death.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence with Rev. J. Calvin Rose of the Second U. P. church in charge. Friends may call at the residence at any time.

Interment will be in Oak Park cemetery.

Joseph August Glavan

Joseph August Glavan, aged 17 years, a resident of Sixth street, Bessemer, died Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock at Crescent, Pa., following an illness of 12 weeks.

The youth was born in Bessemer on August 28, 1925, where he lived his entire life. He was well-known in the community, being well liked by his many friends. This past year he had completed his junior year at Bessemer high school.

Joseph was a faithful member of St. Anthony's church, Bessemer, and of the S. N. P. Lodge No. 167. Joseph was preceded in death by his mother, Mrs. Joseph Glavan, Sr., who died in January, 1942.

Surviving are his father, Joseph Glavan, Sr.; a sister, Agnes at home, and a brother, Pvt. Edward Glavan of Lebanon, Tenn.

The body will be at the Cunningham funeral home until the time of services and where friends may call at any time.

High mass of requiem will be celebrated at St. Anthony's church on Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock with Rev. Fr. Joseph A. Young as celebrant.

Interment will be in St. Anthony's cemetery.

Francis Services

Mrs. Flora Amon Semple, aged 80 years, of 200 Walnut street, West Middlesex, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Hewitt, 706 Neshannock boulevard, Sunday evening at 7:45 o'clock. Mrs. Semple had been ill for the past seven months, and for the last three weeks had been confined at the home of her daughter.

Mrs. Semple was born in Pulaski township, November 8, 1862, daughter of Lynus and Sarah English Amon.

Surviving are her husband, Sylvan G. Semple, and the following children: Harry B. Semple, of Hubbard, O.; Mrs. William Hewitt, of New Castle; Chester C. Semple, of West Middlesex; Fred L., and William of Pittsburgh.

The deceased also leaves 11 grandchildren and three great grandchildren, and the following brothers and sisters: Chancy M. Amon, of Transfer, Pa.; Elmer and Edward Amon, of People, O.; Perry Estricks, of Virginia; and Mrs. Lottie Johnson of Springfield, O.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Hewitt, 706 Neshannock boulevard. Interment will be in Heywood cemetery, West Middlesex.

Seven Refineries Ablaze

Seven of the 13 Ploesti refineries, including storage tanks and cracking plants, which turned out 133,000 tons of fuel for the German war machine weekly, were left blazing shambles after the minute-long raid pronounced to be the longest operational mission ever carried out by heavy bombers on any front.

An authoritative air source in Cairo estimated that one-third to one-half of Germany's war machine, dependent on oil to keep it rolling, may be impaired as a result of the single blistering attack. Incomplete reports revealed that the refineries, which reportedly produced 80 per cent of the German air force's high-octane gas, had been either completely destroyed or knocked out for some time to come.

Led By Brig. Gen. Ent

The attack, carried out while the war-weary Rumanian government was reported extending peace feelers, was personally led by Brig. Gen. Uzal G. Ent, Ninth Air Force bomber commander.

The attack one of the most unique and carefully-planned of the war, involved 600,000 pounds of explosives on the target, most of them delayed action bombs to enable low flying B-24s to get away before the missiles exploded. Months of planning and preparation preceded the assault, and special low-altitude bomb sights were fitted into the ships for the brand new attack technique tested first in small raids against port cities on the Straits of Messina.

Heavily Defended

Ploesti, it was revealed, is one of the most heavily defended cities in the world, with ridges of bristling anti-aircraft guns protecting the city and its surrounding oil fields.

Braving these powerful defenses, the Yank airmen swooped over their targets so quickly that ground batteries were caught by surprise.

The huge bombers dumped thousands of fire bombs as well as demolition delayed-action land mines, on their objectives and daringly raked them with cannon and machine gun fire before the enemy defenders could man their guns.

Enormous fires rose from the fields, augmented periodically by new blasts as the delayed-action bombs exploded, returning airmen said one Yank pilot declared "we dropped enough bombs to send all the oil in Rumania to Berlin by air."

Fulkerson Funeral

Funeral services for Carmen Richard Fulkerson, of 121 Smithfield street, were conducted from the residence Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. Norris White retired minister in charge.

Palbearers were: Walter Fulkerson, James Mitchell, Hugh Daugherty, John Daly, James Fulkerson and John Fulkerson.

Interment was in Greenwood cemetery, and the Mahoning Masonic Lodge, No. 243, conducted the services at the cemetery.

Mrs. Wallace Services

Funeral services for Mrs. John S. Wallace, of 106 East Lincoln avenue, were conducted from the residence Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, with Rev. Robert Criswell, of the Trinity church, in charge.

Honorary palbearers were: Robert P. Loudon, Ralph C. Cunningham, James P. Toler, A. A. Campbell, Dr. David L. Perry and Russell C. Melvin.

Interment was made in the Wallace family plot, in Oak Park cemetery.

James S. Reid Funeral

Funeral services for the late James S. Reid, of 328 Neshannock avenue, were conducted Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, from the Darrell Burke funeral home, North Jefferson street, with Rev. G. S. Bennett, officiating.

Palbearers were: Glenn Shaffer, Albert Grzesink, Joseph Barberger, Harry Norris, James Edmiston and Percy White.

Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Kegaris Funeral

Funeral services for the late Lloyd William Kegaris, of R. D. 3, Wilmington road, were conducted Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the Leyde mortuary, with Rev. L. C. Bailey, of the Wampum Methodist church in charge.

Palbearers were: Jay Knobloch, John Forsberg, George Menning, William Foreman, Lewis Howard and Jack Jones.

Interment was in Castlevew cemetery.

Shepp Funeral

Funeral services for Mrs. Charles A. Shepp, Sr., of 1712 Highland avenue, will take place Wednesday morning, with solemn requiem high mass, at 10 o'clock in St. Mary's church. Interment will take place in St. Joseph's cemetery.

SMASHING ATTACK ON RUMANIAN OIL FIELD HEAVY BLOW

deprived the Axis of that margin of fuel reserves needed to continue effective resistance in Italy, and possibly Russia.

2,400 Mile Round Trip

Negotiating a perilous 2,400-mile round-trip flight in daylight, yesterday, 2,000 carefully-trained American airmen carried out an attack designed to completely destroy the vital target with one blow—and according to all indications, they succeeded.

A communique issued this morning revealed that distillation plants, fractionators, boiler houses and tanks received direct hits. Airmen reported heavy explosions and sheets of flame covered oil refinery installations after the attack.

The communique said heavy fighter and ground opposition was countered by the raiders. One Liberator bomber alone revealed a downed 33 Nazi fighters and a lone bomber accounted for nine interceptors.

NAVY JOINS AIR FORCES IN ATTACKS ON ITALIAN PORTS

whole sections of mountainside and improvise bridges over craters and chasms under constant fire from cleverly-hidden German batteries.

Naval Craft Aids

Fresh Nazi motorized units and new field pieces enabled the German mobile forces to take rapid advantage of cliffs, bluffs and road hazards to harass the Americans. The presence of additional naval craft to loan shells into the enemy coastal positions is bound to give added impetus to the eastward crawl.

The two-pronged attack against Naples and Capo Di Chino was carried out by Flying Fortresses. Hits were scored on two transports in the inner drydock at Naples and upon a seaplane base. The railway station was described as "practically destroyed" by a direct hit, while another bomb caused a tremendous explosion in a gas works.

At Capo Di Chino, the airfield itself, hangars and the headquarters building were blasted, with a number of aircraft on the ground destroyed. One large oil dump was blown up.

Little fighter opposition was encountered over Naples. Less than 30 enemy planes were seen, and eight were shot down.

One Fortress attacking the airfield marked its 150th raid against enemy territory. The craft is a member of the oldest of all heavy bomber groups, operating in this theatre. Its first raid was carried out against Rouen, France, on August 17 last year. The group is commanded by Lieut. Col. Leroy A. Riney of North Drive, San Antonio, Tex., a veteran of 44 missions.

Attack Milazzo Harbor

Another attack by medium bombers was made against the harbor of Milazzo, where hits were scored on the docks and small boats.

The new advances in Sicily followed capture of nine key towns which placed allied forces in gun range of the vital enemy anchor base at San Stefano.

Front-line advisers said the Yanks overran Castelluccio, only five miles west of San Stefano, and brought big guns to bear on the northwestern end of the Axis line. Other towns engulfed by the rapidly-advancing U. S. seventh army were said to include Castelliducio, Motta and Pettineo, as well as San Mauro-Castell-verdi and Sperrlinga, whose capture was officially announced.

A late communique from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters revealed the eastward advance was supported by shellfire from allied warships off the north coast.

The new successes, scored in a lightning 9-mile advance, straightened the westward bulge of the fighting line and enabled the Amerence. Without it, that country from which King Carol fled is deprived of the majority of her commercial trade.

Deprive Hitler of Oil

The Rumanian oilfields are now within range of our middle east-based long distance bombers. Our heavy bomber units in that area are being built up to tremendous size. It is entirely within the power of the democracies in the immediate future to deprive Hitler of his only oil, and Rumania of her means of livelihood.

Further than this, it is improbable that the Axis in the west can feed its "fortress Europe" without the grain of the Ukraine. Hitler is vainly trying to hold these grain fields. In the not far distant future, the red armies of Marshal Stalin will come smashing through the Ukraine from the east to throw out the Nazi invader.

Simultaneously with such an attack, allied bombers will transform the Rumanian oilfields into a smoking and blazing sea of flame which will light the countryside for miles and many days. The Rumanians will flee in terror for their lives.

This will be the allies' contribution to Marshal Stalin—an attack from the west, or in rear of the Nazi hordes now in the Ukraine. The result could be complete panic for the Axis armies now occupying the stolen grain fields of the Soviet.

Mrs. Elsie Nessel, Mrs. Ed Carr Mrs. Alice Johnson, and Mrs. Albert Bevon are the picnic committee.

Eagles Auxiliary Meeting
Auxiliary to the Fraternal Order of the Eagles, will meet Tuesday evening at 8 in their hall on South Jefferson street.

ENGAGEMENT-SHOWER SHARED BY SISTERS

A double celebration marked the party given Saturday evening in the home of Mrs. Hazel Southworth on Winslow avenue when she entertained informally for a number of guests to honor her daughter and son-in-law, Mrs. Thomas Richey, nee Ruth Southworth, and also the engagement of Lois Southworth to James Cochran.

The Richeys received a collection of many beautiful gifts for their home. During the evening a "surprise treasure hunt" was featured, with witty limericks concealed inside capsules being hid at various points through the house. The last one, however, led the guests to the hearth where a mystery small treasure chest was found, and when opened, contained the engagement news of "Lois and Jim."

The bride-elect, daughter of Mrs. Hazel Southworth and the late Rev. L. B. Southworth, a graduate of New Castle High, is employed here in the offices of the Aluminum Company of America. Mr. Cochran is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cochran of 1407 Carlisle street. He is also graduated from New Castle High and is connected with the Johnson Bronze Co. No date has been set for the wedding.

Further entertainment was found in the showing of moving pictures of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Richey. Following a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses, with Mrs. Harry Cochran and Mrs. Edward Callis, aides.

Out-of-town participants included Mrs. J. M. Trout of Union City, Mrs. Edward Callis, Miss Margaret Voglesong and Miss Martha Haritt of Sharon.

TWO U. S. SERVICE MEN HONORED AT LEONHARDT'S

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Leonhardt of Parkstown Corners, were hosts at their home to twenty-three guests at an all day picnic event on Sunday, the occasion honoring their brother-in-law, Claude Branscome, SE-2 C Petty Officer of the Seabees, who is here on furlough. He will leave Tuesday morning to resume his duties at Camp Endicott, Rhode Island where he is stationed.

A delicious picnic dinner was served at 5:30 o'clock at tables placed about the lawn. Following the duo purpose of the occasion was revealed, that of honoring another brother-in-law, Sammy DeCarlo, who has been accepted for the U. S. Army. He was presented with a handsome farewell gift by E. P. Mitchell in behalf of those surrounding him. DeCarlo will report to Camp Meade, Maryland, in three weeks. Wives of the two guests of honor, also participated.

Badminton and croquet were pastimes of the leisure hours.

Birthday Party In California

From Los Angeles, Cal., comes word of a party given recently by Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Henry at their home, 1818 West 5th street, in that city, for Mrs. Henry's father, H. J. Richards, a former New Castle resident, on his eightieth birthday.

Majority of the 25 guests present were also former local residents. They were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peaker, Mr. and Mrs. William Price, Mr. and Mrs. Gwilym Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Russell, Mr. and Mrs. George Robson, Mrs. Katherine Hawkins, Mrs. Henry Badger, Mrs. John Riley, Dr. Thomas Hawkins and David Richards.

The party was an informal birthday event with Mrs. Stanley Richards acting as the hostess's aid.

POST-WAR PLANNING

ONE OF the common mistakes of enthusiastic internationalists who talk about making the world over after the Axis are beaten, is that they assume that present world-sentiment and world alignment will continue when the common danger of Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito have been overcome. Yet experience of the past has proved that this may not be true.

Every great war has been followed by new alignments and it is not yet clear that the new brand of enthusiastic internationalists can do better unless they find some way to change human nature. We all hope that the overthrow of the Axis will bring peace for the next generation, and are willing to cooperate in any reasonable way to bring this about, so long as United States sovereignty and control of its own affairs are left unimpaired.

But to get oneself into the emotional state where he believes that after Hitler is disposed of, the lion will lie down with the lamb and that we can bring universal peace by promising a quart of milk to everyone, is getting into a decidedly unfortunate state of mind.

After the war is over and the nations settle down to business again they will go after world business. And countries now banded together in a just war will not surrender world trade just because of old memories.

For instance, word comes from London that pursuant to the Anglo-Russian treaty of alliance of 1942, British interests, acting entirely independently of the government which is still very properly doing its utmost to help win the war are organizing to seek closer cooperation with the Russians for the purpose of increasing Anglo-Russian trade after the war is over and so compete with the United States and possibly Germany in seeking post-war Eastern European trade.

British business men state the reason they are now forming a closer organization is that in Russia the state carries on trade and the more democratic British have been handicapped in the past by lack of close trade organization at home. It is pointed out that after the first World War, Uncle Sam and Germany succeeded in getting a bigger share of trade with Russia than did Britain.

The British business men in forming their organization to promote trade after the war are undoubtedly acting within their rights. They say that there will be big opportunities for British business in Russia after the war is over and they want to prepare for them. This is wise and patriotic from their standpoint. But it doesn't smack of universal economic brotherhood and a world-wide WPA after the war is over.

BOMBSIGHT PROGRESS

Based on performances to date, Theodore H. Barth, president of Carl L. Norden, Inc., predicts that the Norden bombsight soon will be capable of directing precision bombing from a height of fifteen miles. Not long ago good marksmanship from 10,000 feet seemed preposterous.

Now bombing from that height is regarded as unnecessary except in special instances such as the attack on Rome which was carried out with great delicacy. Mr. Barth says that bombing from such a great height can be, with proper instruments, as precise as from lower altitudes.

The Nazis bomb indiscriminately, he said, because they have not developed a pin-point sight. The Norden bombsight, some of which may now be in the possession of the Nazis, will do them little good. It is one of the world's most intricate instruments, having thousands of parts held to such close tolerances as to make the finest watch a crude gadget by comparison.

The enemy, Mr. Barth declares, can not duplicate the Norden bombsight within at least two years. An additional two years would be required to get it into production and train men in its operation.

OUR PACIFIC OFFENSIVE

American naval and air forces in the Solomons continue to whittle down the Jap navy. Since our offensive began late last month the Japanese have lost 17 war vessels, in addition to a number of cargo ships sent to the bottom by our fliers and naval gunners.

Island-to-island attack in the South Pacific holds many more headaches for the Japs than for us. Our air supremacy in the region makes it possible to isolate these enemy outposts from any reinforcement, and condemn the Japanese garrisons to surrender or extermination.

Jap naval bases in the New Guinea area have become unsafe anchorages for any part of the Japanese navy. The Japs are unwilling to risk their main battle fleets in any of these ports.

The stubbornness of the Jap soldiers in holding out on these island outposts means that our job will not be easy. But the fighting spirit of the Japs is not an answer to our mastery of the air and the sea. Though the enemy makes our task difficult, the end is not in doubt.

At the time when the United Nations are staging an attack on Hitler's European fortress we are doing more than making a mere holding action in the Pacific. Our offensive strength, especially in the air, has grown so rapidly that attack is the order of the day in the Pacific as in the Mediterranean.

Wouldn't it be nice if you could go to sleep in your crib and wake up in an ever-normal granary?

The New Dealers expect to have it easier at the Democratic national convention this time. Washington and Jefferson never refused a fourth term.

Italy's king still struts under the title of Emperor of Ethiopia, and Badoglio is weighed down by the title of Duke of Addis Ababa. Nothing, however, seems to impress the Allied leaders, who continue to demand unconditional surrender.

Remember the good old days when you could stop in the restaurant and get a little crock of baked beans with crackers for a nickel, with a bottle of catsup thrown in?

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TRAIN CHILD TO BE PROMPT

In ever so many homes there is chronic annoyance daily over the youngster from six to 12, who, when the family are all ready to eat, must be waited for. Meal after meal begins, in some homes, with all the other members of the family vexed over waiting for this child.

This sort of problem may easily be solved. Announce to the culprit once that henceforth he will have a warning signal when he shall prepare for the meal and a second signal when he must come at once. In case he fails, assign him to sit several feet away from the table for exactly 20 minutes while the family go on with the meal as if nothing irregular had happened. In case the child is sure the penalty always will follow the offense, he soon will learn promptness. Is this not much more humane than the usual procedure?

When Child Is Outdoors

This problem becomes more complicated if, as often is the case, the runaway is not in the house at mealtime but must be located by some person who searches about the neighborhood. In this case, if the parents can afford to purchase the child a watch, they can easily enforce promptness at meals, provided the meal occurs at regular times. Not having a watch, the child can learn to keep enquiring of the time in the house or near the house where he happens to be playing.

In any event, he should and can be held responsible for promptness at meals. In case the meal is not served at a regular time, let the child know the hour when he shall be on hand and wait, if necessary, till the meal is ready. No one should have to go searching for him.

This plan can be made most effective if the child has learned when two or three years old the unambiguous meaning of NO.

Reasonable Exceptions

There may be a reasonable exception, as when the gang are in the midst of a ball game. It would not be fair to require him to come promptly then, especially if he is about to come to bat. Some considerate mothers have shifted the dinner hour in order not to conflict with a regular game.

It is amazing how many children from five to 14 are allowed to play freely about the neighborhood, especially in summer, even after dark, until a parent goes out to call them in. Why shouldn't the responsibility be placed entirely on the child? He should know that he must come in the house as soon as the street lights go on. This standard is definite, easy to enforce and favors physical and moral safety.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. What preparation do you consider important for a child about to begin school?

A. Good physical health, including proper dental care and careful check-up by the doctor; good eating, sleeping and elimination habits; mental and years of normal play with other children his age; lots of fun at creative play with blocks, crayon, paste, scissors and other playthings. He should also have been read to daily from the age of two or earlier in a family atmosphere of love and understanding.

Q. Sometimes I spank my boy of three for a definite forbidden act. Sometimes I just yell at him to make him stop, but I often must shout several times before he obeys.

A. Quit shouting at him. Never yell at him after the first time. Any forbidden act for which you spank him once should cause you to spank him always thereafter, unless you discover it is wrong to do so, in which event you will tell him you erred and apologize to him.

Q. Is it better for a child 15 to mow the home lawn for pay than to mow the neighbor's for pay?

A. Probably he will work more willingly when hired by the neighbor; yet he will grow best in character value and citizenship if, without the usual arguments, he mows his own lawn without pay but as a family duty. At any rate, he hardly should escape mowing the home lawn, provided it is not unusually large and he have a fit machine to mow with.

KINSHIP

Oh, if you had a sailor boy on duty far at sea.
Or one who flies the heavens in the cause of liberty.
Or a soldier in a fox hole on some island far away.
Do you think you could forget him for one minute of the day?

There are wives with husbands serving at the battle posts afar.
There are men with younger brothers who with Eisenhower are.
There are boys in the Aleutians, and I think it fair to say
By their loved ones they're remembered every minute of the day.

Well, if you're a boy on duty as a sailor far from sea,
And no one who rides the heavens in the cause of liberty.
Just remember there are mothers, wives and sisters, sweethearts, too.
Who have loved ones who are fighting at some battle post for you.

Never think it doesn't matter! They are your sons and they're mine.
For by it they all are fighting on some far-flung battle line.
It's our warfare they are waging, it's for us they face the fray.
And we never should forget them for one minute of the day.

A lank, disconsolate-looking farmer stood on the steps of the court house during the progress of a political meeting.

"Do you know who's talking in there now?" asked the club reporter briskly, pausing for a moment beside the farmer, "or are you just going in?"

"No, sir; I've just come out," said the farmer, "and our congressman whom we elected last year is talking."

"What about?" asked the club reporter.

"Well," replied the farmer, passing his hand across his brow, "he didn't say."

News Moves Too Fast For Harassed Newsmen
Events In Italy Example Of Rapid Changes
Mussolini Is Still Puzzle To Commentators

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Advices from the war zone come entirely too fast for interpretation. Spot news arrives and is published on a minute-to-minute basis—too rapidly to be calculated hour-by-hour. The reader grabs his latest edition, just damp off the press, and draws his own conclusions from the undigested mess that's submitted to him in such hot haste. What he needs is a highly-trained journalistic commentator, well posted in advance, to serve up to him a preliminary assimilated bunch of conclusions, which enlighten the information-seeker without a lick of celebration of his own.

Just now the difficulty of the would-be expert commentator is that his guess works at the zero stage of minutes.

When he tries to analyze some puzzle for the benefit of the readers, he's as puzzled as they are. Events move too fast for him. If he's a competent observer, why can't he keep up?

Benito Mussolini was a prime puzzle when he went through the motions of resigning. At this stage of events he is still a puzzle. It isn't entirely political; it is a matter of news.

Heaven knows it is the job of any competent news correspondent to keep in touch with a fugitive criminal anywhere. Yet there are just times when the slickest secret service agents are at a loss temporarily, especially if their quarry has been bumped off or killed himself voluntarily.

Well, say I am asked at a certain hour on a certain date:

"Where is Benito Mussolini right now?" And I do not know. I am not universal enough to locate him on a minute's notice, with two or three major governments doing their best to cover up his trail. I have to profess ignorance. Yet 15 minutes later he may be pinched anywhere on earth. Is it up to me to have made a bad guess on any place and moment of his extinction as a foremost factor in World War II?

By the times these lines are printed, Benito may be in a menagerie. Yet if I am to report the event, I'd like to report it as a bit of historical information rather than as an immediate occurrence, like an assassination or a national surrender, or something finally decisive.

Now, this is rather interesting.—Back in 1927, Benito Mussolini, as a big Italian newspaperman, was proposed for membership in Washington's National Press club, the world's greatest journalistic organization.

He was the Duce then. He was bigger than Premier Stalin or Fuehrer Hitler or anything that had to do with or any of the smaller dictators, such as Spain's or other pee-wee countries, had to suggest.

He was warmly invited to join the United States National Press club. He was chosen as a member.

However, if a club membership could be successfully opposed, it had to be by 15.

And there were more than 15 opposing members to Benito's membership on the grounds that he was anti-freedom of the press.

Benito was elected but it did not stick. The initial vote was overruled—on second thought. It made it rather conspicuous.

Benito was not a good enough newspaperman to belong to the American National Press club, anyway.

The World and the Mud Puddles

WHERE ARE THE BRAINS?

The War Food Administration has announced that it has so many potatoes on hand that it was considering releasing them to be used as livestock feed. It seems that the WFA last spring bought up some four thousand carloads of potatoes to keep the price from dropping below the minimum guaranteed to farmers when they were asked to increase production.

Recalling the potato shortage a few weeks ago, when they were not to be had at any price in scores of cities and communities throughout the country, one immediately is confronted with another addle-headed "solution" of the food problem, doubtless worked out by amateurs or some of the hundreds of economists in Washington.

If this method of food handling is continued, then what is the sense of demanding from the farmers an increase in production? In this case the surety is threatened by the government's price guarantee and the slide-rule experts, not having the answer, promptly bought up the crop, stored it until it was threatened with spoilage, all the while people throughout the nation going from market to market, searching for spuds which weren't to be had at any price.

It isn't pleasant to criticize, but when an example of stupidity such as the foregoing is revealed by an agency charged with administering the nation's food program, it is difficult to placidly accept the explanation that our experts are "sincere." To be of any value, "sincerity" should be liberally sprinkled with brains.

Great Game Of Politics

The Global Santa Claus

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—THAT THE narrow nationalism, which for 25 years was all we had in the way of a foreign policy, is now definitely dead hardly anyone doubts. Hence, the violence with which the so-called Republican Post-War Policy Committee is assailing the isolationists seems somewhat overdue.

WHILE THEY once flourished all over the country and were conspicuous and influential in both parties, real isolationists are now so shriveled in numbers and importance that they have reached a stage of complete political impotency. The word is regarded as a term of reproach and the doctrine is not advocated by anyone whose views carry weight. Both parties are thoroughly committed to a policy of post-war international co-operation and the isolationists, who formerly infested both, either have been weeded out or have expediently changed with the times.

SO FAR as the Republicans are concerned, they have twice gone on record for international co-operation. As for the Democrats, if there are any isolationists left among them, they do not protrude their views. Isolationism has become absurd. No party and no candidate can afford to be identified with it. Fear of a reversion is not well based and the new excitement seems strained. Most intelligent men assume that the debate concerning our post-war policy has proceeded from the whether to the how stage.

SUCH, anyhow, was the assumption in the very able speech of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. made recently before the Congress recessed and which deserved more attention than it got. Senator Lodge's grandfather was leader in the fight which kept us out of the League of Nations and which forced upon us a stupid aloofness which, to say the least, did not help avert the awful war in which we are now engaged. It is a notable debate that, sitting in the same seat once occupied by his isolationist grandfather, the younger Lodge can declare himself "a fervent believer in the pressing need of international collaboration after the war."

AND IT is certainly encouraging that when he stresses the fact that our co-operation should be practical and selfish instead of impractical and idealistic he should be applauded by Senators of both parties and his speech take rank as the ablest made in Congress for the

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

A Los Angeles fellow is suing a hospital in the city of the angels for $500,000 damages.

A baby was born to his wife in the hospital and he was notified that it was a boy.

Overjoyed he went home immediately, bought a new suit (the boy's name (yes, the name was all ready) and celebrated the arrival of a son and heir.

But when he took his wife and the baby home the next day, the "boy" turned out to be a little girl—and a half million dollars in damages is claimed.

I haven't the slightest idea on what grounds such a big damage claim is based, or why anyone should feel that he is damaged even a nickel's worth by being the father of a girl rather than a boy.

I like girls. My wife was a girl. My mother was a girl. My sister is a girl.

I love them all and to me these former little girls have been a source of joy and help.

This hankering for boys, I think, is based largely upon vanity.

The average person wants to see his name perpetuated, no matter how little that name may amount. A boy may grow up to carry on his father's business or to become a famous lawyer or doctor or even President.

But the little girl with the little curl gets married, exchanges her name for his and sinks into the anonymity of a housewife.

Yet how many girls have become the pride and pleasure of their parents in their declining years.

Wherever I look it's the daughter who gives her mother or her father tenderness and care.

The boy leaves home and cleaves to a career. He establishes his own household and, while he may help to support his parents, his thoughts roam the world, his mother and father become remote and detached.

A half a million damages because it's a girl.

Axis Political Prisoners Are Given Liberty

By ALEXANDER CLIFFORD
Representing the Combined Allied Press.
Distributed by International News Service

PALERMO, July 27.—(Delayed)—Fifty-eight emaciated Axis political prisoners cheered today as they were released by the Allied military government from prisons where they had been confined for periods ranging from a few months to several years.

Half of the liberated captives were Yugoslavs, one was an Algerian and one an Egyptian. Most of them were hollow-eyed skeletons, the heads of many were shaven and the faces of a number bore horrible scars and sores.

They were taken to the town hall, where an American lieutenant colonel read them Allied Commander-in-Chief Dwight D. Eisenhower's surrender message to Italy and Allied Deputy Commander-in-Chief H. R. L. G. Alexander's proclamation.

The prisoners cheered again, as the American officer told them: "Now you are all at liberty, I wish you a free and happy future."

Many of the prisoners fell to weeping. Most of them have no place to go and will have to be cared for. They disclosed they had been living on a daily ration of a pound of bread and watery soup. Many lost 50 to 60 pounds under Axis captivity.

GUNNER'S LAST WORDS TO MOTHER ON PHONE

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—"I'm going up directly, but don't know where."

These were the last words spoken by Staff Sgt. Regis A. Kinzler, 22, an aerial gunner, to his mother, Mrs. Martha Kinzler of Mt. Oliver, just a few minutes before he went to his death in a plane crash.

Sergeant Kinzler, stationed at Tucson, Ariz., telephoned his mother last Friday night to tell her how happy he was to be in the air force, and incidentally that he was going on an unknown flight shortly after.

The plane, a heavy bomber of the Army Air Forces, crashed that night over Tucson, killing Sergeant Kinzler instantly and eight other occupants.

BLOOD PLASMA SAVED SON OF BLOOD BANK WORKER IN MILLVALE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—It will be easy for Mrs. Michael Ulrich, of Millvale, to convince her neighbors of the importance of blood donations when she begins her canvassing for the Red Cross today.

Mrs. Ulrich has seen the magic of blood plasma transfusions work pretty close to home.

The Millvale housewife said she became active in Red Cross work after visiting her son, Private Anthony Porter Ulrich, now convalescing at the Valley Forge hospital, Phoenixville.

"He told me he was wounded in battle and was alive today only because he received a quick transfusion," Mrs. Ulrich said, and added on her own a fervent "thank God for blood plasma."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

past two years. First, Mr. Lodge asserted that as a result of the demands of our Allies and our own fighting forces our reserves of vital basic metals are being heavily depleted and that there is a prospect that after the war, despite our magnificent natural resources, we may become a "have not" nation.

HAVING MADE this assertion, Mr. Lodge proved it by the figures of governmental authorities and the testimony of expert and detached men. Then he urged that the United States owed it to the world as well as to itself to define its needs. Our allies, the British and Russians, he said, know exactly what theirs are; we should know—and let it be known—what ours are. The manner in which Mr. Lodge presented his case got an unusual response in the Senate from both sides of the chamber. There also is reason to believe that more nearly than any recent utterance on the subject it was in accord with public sentiment. The official post-war planning Republican committee, soon to meet at Mackinaw Island, undoubtedly will formulate a plan along the Lodge lines for submission to the Republican convention.

CERTAINLY, it will have strong popular support. It is the sort of common-sense co-operation calculated to appeal to the people. Members of Congress who recently have been mingling with their constituents are more strongly than ever for international co-operation, but are all primed to revolt against what Mr. Henry J. Taylor, in his book, "Men in Motion," calls the "global boondoggling" type of co-operation. Practically everybody is for international co-operation, but not everybody, by a long shot, is for the sort of international co-operation which some of the extreme internationalists in the Administration are urging. Perhaps, that is where the issue will be drawn in the next campaign.

MR. TAYLOR makes the point that through Administration speeches, OWI propaganda and half-baked, garrulous BEW agents, we have been making a lot of promises that cannot be kept. Notwithstanding Mr. Roosevelt's Wednesday speech, we cannot give—or force upon—all the nations of the world, the so-called "Four Freedoms" which were defined by one of Mr. Roosevelt's ghost writers in one of Mr. Roosevelt's speeches and which he seems to regard as original with him, which they were not. Also, we are going to absurdities in promising to feed, clothe and economically salvage more than a billion distressed people in Europe and Asia. Mr. Wallace's quart of milk a day idea is a sample of the sort of misleading stuff which has been going out from here all over the world.

WE CANNOT make good on these promises. We cannot establish a global WPA. We cannot settle all the political problems of all the small nations after the war nor nurse them back to fiscal health. Yet, the rantings of the radical press and the tone of various Administration utterances tend to encourage abroad the belief that after victory we will take charge of the world and see that everybody is happy again, which is absurd. We can't make good on any of this stuff. We will have our hands full with our own overwhelming domestic problems, which must come first. There is too much loose talk about international co-operation by Administrationists. Despite the President's resolute description of the "starry-eyed dreamers," that is exactly what they are.

IT IS ESSENTIAL for a prolonged peace and our own economic salvation that we abandon forever and completely our old isolation ideas, of which both parties were guilty—and co-operate with the rest of the world—particularly with the British, the Russians and our other allies, in some form of collective association that will enforce peace and insure economic security. But, this mushy notion that we not only will feed and clothe all the people who need food and clothing the world over but also will help them govern themselves does not promote these objectives. In the first place, we cannot do it. For one thing, we are not doing these things for ourselves with conspicuous success. For another, effective international co-operation in the interests of peace and economic stability does not require this nation to become either a global Santa Claus or the great international sucker.

What Noted People Say

WASHINGTON—Pres. Roosevelt: "The United Nations are going to win this war... it seems only fair that they (Axis leaders) should have this warning that the time will come when they shall have to stand in courts of law in the very countries which they are now oppressing and answer for their acts."

NEW YORK—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox: "Air power is of tremendous importance but it is only a part of the whole scheme of force. We cannot attain complete victory until we land armies and beat the enemies' armies on the ground."

WASHINGTON—Sen. George L. Radcliffe (D, Md.): "The United States should not again repeat the stupid performance of the past and permit its merchant fleet to dwindle away. I am determined that it should not do so."

WASHINGTON—Donald M. Nelson: "I do not believe there is any limit on the altitude which this nation can and will reach in industrial development, but we are not likely to maintain monthly numerical increases in war production as large as those we have had in the past."

It takes about 400,000 Nazi occupation troops in Norway to hold down that country's population of approximately 2,000,000.

Military Currency Issued By Allies In Sicily 'Lira'

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The war and treasury departments today revealed that "Allied military currency" has been released in Sicily.

Allied expeditionary forces, the statement declared, seeking to establish orderly relationships with the people of liberated Sicily are introducing the currency into its occupied areas. The money is called "lira," a term that will be understood by every Sicilian trader and consumer.

This is the first Allied venture into the field of military monetary expedience, officials of the treasury and war departments said, and an undertaking without precedent so far as the United States is concerned.

Many of our most useful items of military equipment have been devised and developed by civilians, says the National Inventors Council, Department of Commerce.

About 1,750,000 troops a month travel on American trains in official troop movements.

SERIES OF FIRES IN PITTSBURGH HOME

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—Lightning may never strike twice in the same place, but that doesn't guarantee fire won't break out three times in one building within a couple of hours.

City detectives called to investigate the incendiary quality of a two-story brick dwelling on Carlington street on the northside will quickly testify to that.

The first blaze broke out shortly after 10 o'clock last night and was caused by a burning mattress in the basement. A half hour later firemen were back at the house quelling flames on the second floor. Shortly after, just to make it a democratic fire and give everyone a chance, the fire fighters were summoned for the third time to put out a blaze which now enveloped the first floor.

No serious damage accrued through any of the flash fires.

DESCRIBES FALL OF HILL ON WAY TO SAN STEFANO

German Defenders Fight Stubbornly Amid Rugged Terrain in Sicily

By CLARK LEE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE U. S. 7th ARMY ON THE SICILIAN FRONT, July 30.—(Delayed)—Our troops swept up to the top of a hill three times today. They were driven off twice, but finally regained the crest and held it in the fifth day of severe fighting in which our objective is the capture of San Stefano.

Accompanying our troops who earlier captured a nearby hill commanding the road junction between Nicosia and San Stefano, I watched the battle in which Americans and Germans slugged it out with artillery, machine guns and infantry. The Americans faced the added obstacle of attacking up the steep slope of 1,000 feet.

When we finally reached the summit the Germans still held even higher ground, from behind which their 88's and 150's pounded our positions and kept the soldiers and myself hitting the dirt intermittently for hours.

Advances Slow Here

And beyond the German positions were three equally high steep ridges. The battle was typical of the fighting we have faced ever since the Americans advanced beyond Cefalu, five days ago. In the last 48 hours our forces have made only a mile-and-a-half along the coastal road in the most rugged terrain.

The Germans are fighting stubbornly up to the point where their position is hopeless. With these forces as our enemy the conflicts have become entirely different from the drive up to Palermo, or the former 30-mile-a-day advances made by this division.

In those opening days of the campaign only two or three guns or tanks had to be knocked out and the Italians surrendered by the hundreds. In this sector the Germans are fighting stubbornly for nearly every hilltop.

And I have not seen an Italian in two days.

Casualties Stay Low

Considering the ferocity of the combat our casualties are still remarkably low, but you can't fight like this without getting hurt. Here and there along the road there are solitary American graves. When you pass a small hillside cemetery en route to the front in the morning you notice one row of a dozen graves with a couple of more in the next row. Returning at nightfall, the entire second row has been filled and another row started.

The close combat began soon after our troops started advancing from Cefalu, along the well-paved two-lane road that follows the shore of the Tyrrhenian Sea and along which ridges of a thousand feet or more in height run sheerly down to the water.

Road Gone, Under Fire

As our advance elements rounded these cliffs they found the German blown up and partially crumbled in to the sea, with rocks from the cliffside blocking the remainder of the passage. At the same time German artillery, which the road pointed in their aim, opened fire. Our own artillery took up its positions and began to search out the Nazis' guns, while the engineers, mostly boys from New Mexico, worked in spite of the enemy's shells to repair the highway.

Infantry columns were sent a few miles inland to outflank the German positions. There they found the hills even higher and more rugged but a search of the countryside resulted in rounding up some mules, which were pressed into service, carrying packs and small mountain artillery laboriously over hill after hill.

BERLIN FEARS MASS BOMBING

for the fate of Hamburg, Cologne, Essen and other German cities.

Disparities from Stockholm correspondents in Berlin which disclosed the suddenly-intensified fear of Allied raids said all civilians not in essential services in the capital were instructed to flee to the homes of relatives in the country, and to take their food ration cards and cooking and eating utensils with them.

Schoolchildren and their mothers these reports said, would be taken to eastern Germany.

The mounting fear of mass bombings is said to have spread quickly to many other German cities now believed seriously threatened with attack.

In Munich, the official Nazi newspaper Völkischer Beobachter, urged civilians: "stick it out. Any wavering would mean defeat."

The entire Reich is threatened by bombs.

Meanwhile the great German port of Hamburg was reported still smoldering, which took an estimated toll of 14,000 lives. More than 400,000 of the population have fled the city, with more thousands continuing to leave daily.

PROBE PLANE CRASH FATAL TO HOMEWOOD FATHER OF SEVEN

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—Civil aeronautics officials today investigated the airplane accident yesterday in Derry township which claimed the life of a Homewood man, the father of seven children.

Albert F. Johns, 41, Homewood funeral director, was killed instantly when his private plane, a one-seater, plummeted to earth one mile from the farm where he was born.

Johns, who leaves a wife and seven children, had been flying for eight months, and was a member of the Civil Air Patrol, although he wasn't on duty at the time of the crash.

BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY UNLEASHES FULL-SCALE DRIVE

work of the American Seventh Army and promised liberation of Sicily just as surely as "we and the Americans" knocked Mussolini off his horse.

The big push came just less than three weeks after Allied forces landed on the southern coast of Sicily at the start of the fastest and most spectacular offensive in history.

Montgomery's signal to go came at a moment when American naval units in full force entered the fray in support of United States Seventh Army troops operating on the heavily fortified north coast and followed a week-end of naval bombardment and air attack against Sicilian objectives and the Italian mainland.

Despite stiff opposition, the Americans surged forward steadily, seizing the town of Mistretta on the main highway five miles due south of San Stefano, the main Axis left wing anchor.

Ten thousand prisoners, half of them German, were taken at Mistretta.

Three Pronged Attack

While Montgomery gave the order to advance to the British Eighth Army as the main unit under his direct command, the offensive obviously was a full-scale three-pronged attack, with American forces advancing along the north road and Canadians pressing against the Axis flank from the west.

Under cover of hundreds of aircraft which swept the skies clear of Axis planes, the Allied forces lunged against the main German defenses with terrific impetus.

Gen. Montgomery was believed to be using the same tactics with which he smashed the Germans at the Mareh line in Tunisia, striking from the main Axis bastions before Catania at a moment when other forces were in a position to blast at the enemy from the flanks.

Observers at military headquarters were confident that the campaign to clean up the Messina corridor would not be a lengthy one.

Montgomery's troops swung toward Pachino and Cape Passero, overwhelming the Axis at Syracuse and Augusta, and then virtually "sat down" on the fringes of the Catanian plain to wait for American troops to clean up the west end of the island.

During this period, his veteran Eighth Army was brought up to full battle strength. Troops, ammunition, tanks, guns, jeeps, trucks, mobile artillery and food supplies in 10,000-ton cargo lots were unloaded from freighters at the great Syracuse and Augusta docks, which were captured virtually undamaged.

It has been Montgomery's policy from the beginning of his enormous successful operations in North Africa and the Mediterranean never to attack until every last ounce of needed supplies and reinforcements are at hand. He is an exponent of "the last button on the last gun" doctrine credited to Napoleon III, but has been far more successful in its application than that ill-starred seeker of conquest and glory.

ter use. No product of any vegetable garden, berry patch, or orchard should be allowed to go to waste. CAN ALL YOU CAN!

Teacher shortage is becoming most noticeable in the county, Pa. New is informed as the selective service continues to add more of the school teachers to the armed forces, and other teachers are shifting jobs.

One of the largest of the early ripe tomatoes reported to Pa. New by an amateur victory gardener is a 10½ ounce Marglobe picked yesterday.

Saturday, in the back yard of Dr. G. E. Seal's, East Washington street, two neighbor ladies noticed two roof sparrows acting queerly. Upon closer observation they found that the birds were attacking a young mouse that did much squealing. Soon the rodent was overcome, and one of the sparrows flew with the carcass to the top of a garage nearby to devour what it desired.

eight miles and liberation of more than 100 townships north, east and south of Orel.

The gains represented the Red army's most substantial advances in a week.

Capture of Kuma, 12 miles south of Bolkhov and 21 miles north of Orel, completed liquidation of a German defense line that had been strongly defended.

Three Armies Near Base

The Soviet high command revealed that three Russian armies—south, east and northeast of Orel—now are only 10 miles from the pivot base.

The midnight communiqué also reported heavy fighting in the Donets Basin, where the Russians repelled heavy German tank and infantry attacks and inflicted heavy losses on the Nazis. Only reconnaissance was reported on other fronts. The bulletin added that during yesterday 70 German tanks and 97 Nazi planes were destroyed in all battle areas.

Porty of the 100 newly recaptured towns and villages were overrun by Russian advances north-northwest of Orel. In this sector, one Red army unit repelled nine counter-attacks in which 3,000 Germans were slain and 28 guns and 160 lorries were destroyed. Another Russian unit annihilated two companies of Nazis and seized an enemy strong point north of Orel.

Repulse Counter-Attack

East of the besieged German base, Soviet troops threw back several bitter German counter-attacks, then followed up these victories by advancing and seizing several localities. South of Orel another Russian unit captured a river at three points and routed two battalions of German infantry.

German tank and infantry reinforcements thrown into the battle southwest of Voroshilovgrad lost heavily in men and material as the Russians beat back strong Nazi attacks. In one sector alone the Germans attacked seven times, only to lose 60 tanks.

In another sector of the same front, 1,500 Germans were killed in bitter fighting. Soviet planes shot down 53 Nazi planes on the Voroshilovgrad front.

Fighting in the Belgorod area, south of the Orel front, was limited to patrol activity.

In the Leningrad area, at the northern end of the long Russian battlefield, Soviet artillery knocked out 20 enemy blockhouses. Red army snipers picked off 500 Germans, and five German planes were shot down in combat.

WARNS ON POLICY

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—American observers today studied a warning by Lord Robert G. Van Sittart, former key official in the British foreign office, against repeating in Italy the "errors" of the American foreign policy in dealing with France.

Speaking from London in a program broadcast throughout the United States by CBS, the Briton cautioned against collaboration either in France or Italy—with "any leopard which has changed its spots and manured its nails."

Victory Gardens Of Nation May Produce 20 Billion Pounds

Vegetables From Backyard Will Be Big Boost For U. S. Food Supply

By ERWIN STAS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—If America's victory gardeners do their job "according to hoyle" this year, the nation's food supply will be boosted by 20,000,000,000 pounds.

But, a war food administration spokesman has added, "your guess is as good as mine as to what you'll actually produce."

A man well-versed in victory gardening and one who has his own model, the spokesman estimated there are 20,000,000 back-yard gardens in the United States today.

Each, he said, if planted according to suggestions from the agriculture department, will be about 30 by 50 feet in size and produce about 1,000 pounds of vegetables, assuming maximum production.

"In any event," said the spokesman, "there'll be a lot of vegetables when the total crop is harvested."

Continuing with an explanation about his own garden—planted "according to the book," he said he put in the following items: Spinach, radishes, onions, cabbage, turnips, carrots, beets, lettuce, Swiss chard, tomatoes, lime and snap beans.

These are mostly root crops which weigh heavily, he said. By replacing early crops with the second, or fall crops, recommended by the booklet on victory gardens, the total production can be boosted substantially.

Most victory gardeners, however, did not plant such large plots and in many cases their yields will not reach the 1,000-pound mark. Actual production figures, the spokesman said, probably will be far below the 20,000,000,000-pound possible total.

George H. Bolinger Seeks Re-Election

Announces Candidacy For County Commissioner At Republican Primaries

GEORGE H. BOLINGER

George H. Bolinger of Neshannock township today announced that he is a candidate for re-election to the office of county commissioner. His statement of announcement follows:

"During my term of office I have attempted to conduct myself as one of your county commissioners in the same manner that I would have conducted my own business. To that end I have practiced economy when I felt that economy was necessary, always bearing in mind that rehabilitation of the county house and all other county buildings and county property at a reasonable cost constituted a sound investment and prudent expenditure.

As a result of applying this policy many improvements have been made to county buildings and county property without any unusual expense to the taxpayers. Even though these improvements have been made county and institution district taxes have been substantially reduced during the past several years. An examination of the tax cards which you have received during these years will substantiate this statement and will tell the story much more effectively than I can do by a lengthy recital of the facts.

The county commissioners are entrusted with the general management of the county and of the institution district. If nominated and elected I promise you that I will, as one of your county commissioners, continue to manage the affairs of the county and the institution district in a businesslike manner. I will continue to emphasize and insist upon an economical administration of your county government. I favor the continuance of the present low tax rates so long as these low tax rates permit the county to be operated on a sound financial basis but I also favor the maintenance of sufficient reserves in cash so that the county will never have to borrow money to meet current expenses.

I believe that I have served you faithfully and efficiently and I again solicit your vote and ask for your active support at the Republican primaries to be held September 14th, next.

GEORGE H. BOLINGER.

War Manpower Districts Changed

New Castle-Aliquippa District Is Realigned In Other Districts

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2—A realignment of geographical administrative divisions of the War Manpower Commission today was effected in an effort to give full service through WMC area directors in every section of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

Frank L. McNamee, regional manpower chief, asserted that the new set-up eliminates six districts in Pennsylvania which were receiving only limited service.

Two new areas are set up in the commonwealth, with headquarters at Altoona and Greensburg, and the Harrisburg area is consolidated with York-Lancaster. Harold J. McNeil will serve as director of the latter group in the Lancaster office.

The Aliquippa-New Castle area is abolished under the new plan, and a part of it will be consolidated with the Pittsburgh organization. New Castle will come under the jurisdiction of the Greensburg office. The Erie area will be restricted to Erie county.

Headquarters of the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre area will be moved to Wilkes-Barre. Floren J. Boland has been named as acting director, replacing Dr. Frank P. Maguire who will head the Allentown office.

The Aliquippa-New Castle area is abolished under the new plan, and a part of it will be consolidated with the Pittsburgh organization. New Castle will come under the jurisdiction of the Greensburg office. The Erie area will be restricted to Erie county.

Headquarters of the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre area will be moved to Wilkes-Barre. Floren J. Boland has been named as acting director, replacing Dr. Frank P. Maguire who will head the Allentown office.

Senator Declares Beef Supply Will Be Short In U. S.

By ERVIN D. SIAS

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry (R) Neb., today labeled as "non-sensical" a department of agriculture announcement that there will be plenty of beef for civilians during the next 17 months.

Wherry reiterated his earlier prediction of a famine of corn-fed beef and asserted it will be felt by the United States at least by January of 1944, "if not sooner."

"At present," Wherry said, "we're getting a lot of grass-fed cattle on the market simply because of poor range conditions and a lack of feed grains, but this is merely temporary."

Under such "chaotic conditions," the senator continued, there will be plenty of beef until the animals now being marketed begin to dwindle off. Cattle raisers are holding their livestock for better prices next year and a more satisfactory feeding margin, he said.

"None of these feeders are putting their cattle back into feed lots because of the uncertainty of conditions—and this will bring about a famine of corn-fed beef," Wherry declared.

Charging that under-fed animals are being slaughtered "way short of their best weight," Wherry said the government wants these cattle on the market in spite of the fact that civilians are losing millions and millions of pounds of meat.

Senator Hatch Seeks Statement Of U. S. Position

Wants U. S. Statement For Peace Table Before Speculation of Allies Starts

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Senator Carl N. Hatch, (D), New Mex., today called for a clear statement of what position America will take at the peace table before there is any speculation on what Russia and other Allies will do. Hatch, co-author of the Ball-Burton-Hill-Hatch resolution for an organization of United Nations, issued his statement upon returning to the capital from a midwest speaking tour which he said demonstrated to him that isolationism is dead.

He also said that if it is necessary to get a clear statement of American aims from the Senate, that he is willing to see the famous B2-H2 resolution introduced by the four senators sacrificed for something better. "Before this country or the people responsible for working out peace and post-war plans begin to speculate on what Russia or other nations are going to do, we should make clear to them what our position is," Hatch asserted.

Asked whether the B2-H2 resolution was not "out of the window" as a result of President Roosevelt's recent fireside speech that warned against planning details of a peace at this time, Hatch said there is no conflict between the resolution and the president's attitude. "There has never been anything in the minds of the authors of the resolution except to attain a clear statement of principles and general objectives," Hatch asserted. "Neither am I interested in details at this time. The resolution itself may not be perfect, although it required a great deal of work. Yet if something better can be produced, then that is the course to take."

Tregaskis Tells Of Conquest Of Nicosia, Sicily

Witnessed Drive To Capture Important Highway Center

(Editor's Note: The epic struggle which culminated in American capture of the Sicilian key-point known as Nicosia is described in a series of eye-witness dispatches from Richard Tregaskis, noted war correspondent of International News Service. His first dispatch follows.)

By RICHARD TREGASKIS

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS ON THE NICOSIA FRONT, July 28.—(Delayed)—History books and commentaries mentioning the conquest of Nicosia by American forces will tell only half the story.

They will refer to it as a victory of artillery power and field maneuvers with few casualties.

But as an eye-witness of the drive which concluded today with capture of this vitally important road network center, I can vouch for the fact it was far more than that.

Strategic Hills Taken

Accompanying one of the attacking infantry units on foot, I watched the taking of two historically important but otherwise insignificant objectives—Bald Head knoll and the hill which commanded German positions on the other sector of the Nicosia area.

We came through artillery and mortar fire and rifle and machine-gun fire to seize the objectives in a night attack.

The real push began on Monday night, July 26. That afternoon units of our troops had experimentally probed the German defenses with frontal attacks.

Again and again the hills had changed hands. Then, as other of our troops came up in support, it was decided to stage flanking attacks which began Monday night after dark and continued the next day and night.

Sniper Victims

Tuesday morning while on my way to join the company which was carrying the lead on one prong of the offensive on the southern flank, I encountered a company led by Capt. Edward Wozenski of Conn., which had previously occupied the knoll.

I found Wozenski's company dug in on the upper edge of a wheat patch on the side of a ridge. Wozenski himself—a handsome man with a blond mustache—was sitting beside his troops. He pointed to Bald Head knoll and said patiently: "We're pinned down by snipers machineguns. We tried to get this hill here but they waited until we got by and then shot two of my men in the back."

Wozenski spoke a bullet cracked over our heads and buzzed away into the distance. "There he is now," said Wozenski calmly.

Enemy Besieged

Behind us our artillery batteries of "long tons" boomed and the sound echoed like summer thunder in the mountain crags. We heard shells passing overhead, singing peacefully, and then the loud crack, crack, as they smashed into Bald Head knoll beyond.

"Artillery must be falling all around 'em," Wozenski said with a smile. "They just don't know when to get out."

Staff Sgt. Robert J. Kemp of Fenelon, Pa., came up at this time and started telling how on the previous night his platoon took a German position.

"Bullets were whizzing all over the place," he said. "We crawled up to about 25 yards and then made a bayonet charge, chucking a few grenades. I killed one with a tommy-gun and the rest of the krauts jumped up and ran off."

Supplies By Mule

Wozenski told us that water and rations had failed to come up since even jeeps had been unable to penetrate the craggy area but mules were supposed to be on the way with supplies.

Meanwhile, a private limped up holding a canteen pierced with a bullet hole and told us a sniper had hit him in the leg. While his wound was being dressed one of Wozenski's officers commented sympathetically:

"Too bad you lost your water."

Other wounded were being removed, for shells had fallen on the ridge top. One staggered by blind, led by a buddy. Another was moaning for help in the grass of the hilltop as he had been hit in the stomach. Another carried off was only the wreckage of a body.

This was certainly no picnic, but the worst was yet to come.

(Editor's Note: The eye-witness description of this encounter will be continued in the next installment.)

GERMAN AIRDROMES IN FRANCE TARGETS

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Twin-motored American bombers of the U. S. Army Air Force's tactical command battered the German-operated airdromes at Merville and St. Omer, France, this morning without loss. The raiders were escorted by Royal Air Force, Dominion and other Allied Spitfire squadrons, an official communique said.

Delay Award On Bids For City Lots

Some Complications Develop In Plan To Use City Lots For Home Building

Council today met in city hall but delayed an award on bids for nine lots in section 9, city survey (Clenmore boulevard-Delaware avenue section) pending a possible agreement between two parties which presented the bids. Dr. John P. Pioletti bid $2,000, for seven lots and W. D. Kelly, $400, for two lots. Dale M. Andrews thought the bids were to be made orally in council meeting. The others conformed to the advertisement.

Pioletti through his attorney Joseph Letz maintained that he had conformed to the bids and his desire was to buy the lots to keep out objectionable properties or residents.

Andrews explained that he had arranged for putting up houses to cost $6,000, for "key men" of the United Engineering. The maximum allowed for a house now is $6,000, he explained.

Council withheld an award pending a possible agreement between the men.

The bids according to the advertisement were opened at 10 a. m. and Pioletti and Kelly's were the only ones received.

Andrews had asked council some time ago to put the city owned lots up for sale because he had arranged for a compromise between the county, school board and city and agreed to pay for the advertisement.

QUESTION 17 IN SOLDIER'S DEATH

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 2.—Military authorities and civil police today are holding 17 persons for questioning in connection with the death of Pvt. Frank J. Hughes, 42, of Philadelphia, whose body was found in a Harrisburg rooming house.

Earl H. Grim, Dauphin county coroner, said death was due to a hemorrhage caused by a blow on the head with a blunt instrument.

A hammer, described as a possible weapon, was found in the home of one of the suspects, according to the city police.

Hughes was attached to the 1301st service unit at the New Cumberland army reception center.

Wampum district has a church enrollment of 921 and a Sunday school enrollment of 1,005.

The totals for Lawrence county are church enrollment, 32,066, and Sunday school enrollment of 25,368. These figures are for the Protestant churches and Sunday schools.

'Frigorous Sal' Is Invented By Yanks Tired Of Scrubbing

(International News Service)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 2.—"Frigorous Sal" now is on the job in North Africa—a tribute to American ingenuity and the answer to a dough-boy's dream.

"Sal" is a hard-working washing machine and the pile of laundry she turns out daily indicates there is nothing frivolous about her. Her creation became inevitable the day Sgt. Jennings Tucker of Colowhee, N. C., and Kasper Gesselman of Greensburg, Pa., came to the conclusion that scrubbing clothes with a brush was both unsatisfactory and back-breaking.

They "scrubbed" army junk yards and made "Sal" out of a gasoline drum, scraps of angle-iron, an air compressor from a wrecked jeep and assorted truck parts.

On the day of "Sal's" first trial run a French laundrywoman living nearby started looking for other work.

Now Tucker and Gesselman are collecting parts for a projected ice cream freezer.

FRANK SANDERS' UNCLE IS CALLED

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sanders, of Pershing street, Ewing park, have been called to Erie, Pa., by the death of the former's uncle, James Sanders.

WURTEMBERG AUXILIARY

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 2.—The Wurtemburg Firemen's Auxiliary will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the fire station.

The condition of Mrs. Paul Nye, who recently underwent a major operation at the local hospital, is much improved, and she will be removed to her home at North Sewickley during the latter part of this week.

Call Her 'Angel'

IF YOU give this 20-year-old Wave that celestial greeting, you'll be doing what everyone else does at the Philadelphia Naval hospital. She's Pharmacist's Mate Third Class Joan Angel and in addition to her many service duties she has just written a book, "Angel of the Navy," which tells of her wartime experiences. (International)

Aetna-Standard Looks To Post-War Business Program

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 2.—Ellwood City's big machine maker, the Aetna-Standard Engineering company brought enthusiastic response to the local Post War Planning Commission when Ernest E. Swarts-welder, president of that firm announced that his company already has worked out an ambitious Post-War program without letting up on its war work which includes production of anti-aircraft gun mounts, half-tracks and many other pieces of war equipment.

The local plant which is sharply increasing its force of engineers has been commended by Washington officials for the aid it has given in solving engineering problems confronting other concerns.

President Swarts-welder stated that the important job is winning the war and the second job is to insure that we will have some prospect after the war. Aetna-Standard is setting ready for a tremendous demand for new machinery to replace that which has become obsolete or for the manufacture of new products.

Officials of the plant stated the local firm is already doing an international business and they expect to have business flowing in from Russia, China, Australia and elsewhere after the war. Ellwood City industries like the Aetna-Standard, are willing to admit that the war isn't won yet but they are all optimistic about the outlook for their business after the war. Every industry here is making a survey of the plant so that they can kick the war business out the window at any time military men do not need their output and then go full tilt into the post-war business.

Restaurants With Frills Will Get No Aid From WMC

Rule Out Government Employment Service For Luxury Dining Spots

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Restaurant "doo-dads" must go—everything from the cigarette girl to the chef's special culinary "flourish"—if dining spots in labor shortage areas want employee-recruiting aid, the War Manpower Commission ruled today.

Night clubs and other eating places furnishing amusement needn't even apply for such government service, Chairman Paul V. McNutt made it clear. They're not eligible.

No frills or luxury services, such as the lavatory attendant, finger bowls, cloth table-cloths and napkins, separate vegetable dishes or service plates, will be permitted if you want Uncle Sam to help find a waiter or a dish-washer for your beany.

Believe Mr. McNutt—This is strictly from hunger.

"Guests, too, will be expected to assume much of the labor load wherever possible," the WMC statement added.

List New Standards

Under the new standards restaurants seeking aid are required to introduce "self-service" as much as possible, allowing guests to pour their own drinking water and serve themselves cold dishes from buffets wherever possible.

Here are the standards with which restaurants providing meals for "the working population in labor shortage areas" must comply if they want help from the United States employment service:

1. Eliminate cigarette girls, doorman and lavatory attendants furnishing personal service.

2. Simplify menus, with choice of a la carte dishes and table d'hôte meals cut to a minimum. Typical "before" and "after" menus should be filed to demonstrate reductions.

3. Eliminate special orders—dishes not on the regular menus—as well as special cooking for parties and outside catering.

4. Eliminate delivery of "outgoing" orders and room service, except in cases of sickness or for persons accompanying infants.

5. In areas where laundries have been declared "locally needed" eliminate use of textile tablecloths unless the establishment's equipment cannot be used without them; eliminate textile napkins unless paper napkins are not obtainable.

6. Adjust hours of operation to local war needs.

7. Reduce china and silver table service to a minimum. No more service plates, double underliners, finger bowls, separate vegetable plates, cocktail glasses with inserts, etc.

8. Introduce self-service to as great a degree as possible.

BUYS ANTIQUE BAYONETS

(International News Service)

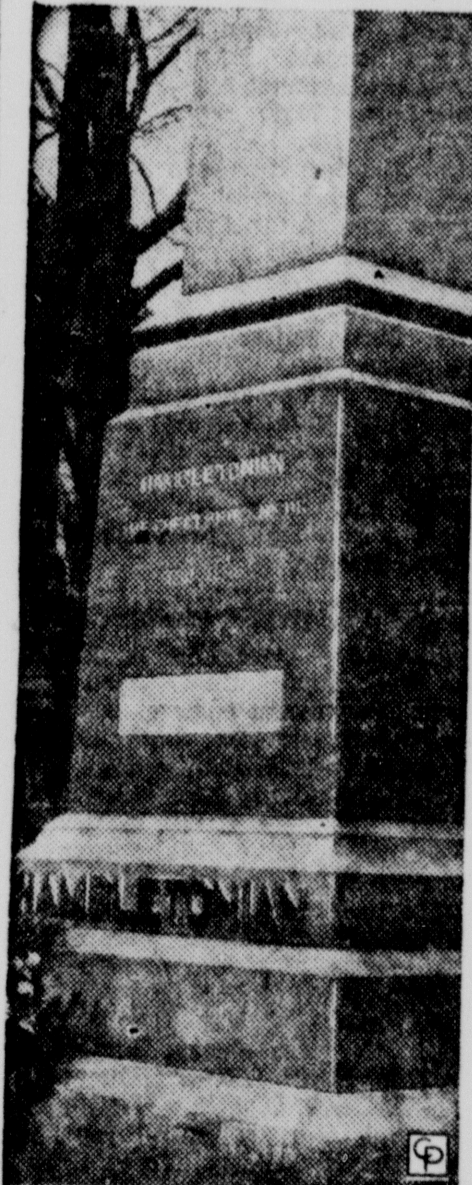

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Weapons used 80-odd years ago in the Civil war have been dug out of an old curio shop by Adj. Gen. T. A. Fra-zier for use by the Tennessee State Guard. They consist of 4,200 antique bayonets, purchased at 15 cents apiece, plus the scabbards at 10 cents each. Rusty with age when uncovered in a storeroom of a New York arms and curio shop, the old-time instruments of war were shipped to Tennessee and are now being refurbished in a state institution for distribution to the shotgun companies of the guard.

Going Back

EVER WONDER why they call the blue ribbon classic of harness racing the Hambletonian? Well, the $40,000 stake, to be run Aug. 11 at Empire City, N. Y., track this year, is named after Hambletonian, famous stallion who was the greatest progenitor of trotters in the world. Hambletonian was born at Chester, N. Y., May 5, 1849, and died March 7, 1876. It is estimated that 90 per cent of all trotters racing are direct descendants of the famous horse, whose memory is honored by the trotting race and by his monument at Chester. (International)

Archbishop Home From Long Tour

Archbishop Spellman Expresses Hope Italy Will Accept Peace Proffers

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of the Catholic diocese of New York today expressed the hope that Italy will find it possible to accept the offers made to her by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and General Eisenhower.

"Italy's surrender would bring nearer the peace for which the world yearns," said the Archbishop, who returned home last night after an extended tour of England, the Mediterranean and Africa, including a visit to the Vatican, received newsmen at his residence this morning. He had been away since last February.

Archbishop Spellman took occasion to deny a recently published rumor that, prior to his departure on his mission as Catholic military vicar of the armed forces of the United States, he had held weekly conversations over the transatlantic telephone with Pope Pius XII in which the Pope expressed the hope of an early understanding between the Vatican and Soviet Russia.

Reading from a newspaper clipping, the Archbishop seemed distressed that such an erroneous report had gotten into print.

"I never told friends any such thing," said the Archbishop. "I never talked to the Pope over the transatlantic phone or any phone."

Swap

your old electric appliances for WAR STAMPS!

Yes, the big news in your neighborhood is this patriotic plan . . . designed to put extra WAR STAMPS in your pocket . . . and at the same time put IDLE and BADLY NEEDED Electric Appliances in the hands of War Workers and other families in this area.

You and your friends and neighbors are asked to round-up all the SPARE and OLD Electric Appliances you can find, also any extra Appliance CORDS you may have. Take them to the nearest Electric Dealer participating in this plan . . . and you will receive U. S. War Stamps for each appliance, and each Appliance Cord. He will restore them to usable condition . . . and re-sell them to the many families now doing without.

Do it today . . . tomorrow . . . or as soon as you can. "Enlist" them in this worthy, patriotic cause. You'll help yourself . . . you'll help your Electric Dealer . . . you'll help Uncle Sam . . . and you'll help those families of War Workers.

HUNT THEM WHILE YOU HOUSECLEAN

SEARCH YOUR CELLAR!
Perhaps there's an out-of-date washer, broken ironer, a hand iron, or some cords you have put on the side lines.

LOOK IN THE ATTIC!
Up where you've forgotten all about them maybe you'll uncover an extra clock, vacuum cleaner or percolator.

SEARCH THE CUPBOARDS!
On forgotten shelves in various cupboards perhaps you'll find an extra appliance or two, or three.

DON'T FORGET THE GARAGE!
Sometimes the garage is an excellent "hiding" place for spare cords and old appliances.

RUSH THEM TO YOUR ELECTRIC DEALER DISPLAYING THIS SIGN

The Electric Dealer displaying the special red-white-and-blue insignia is waiting for you with an arm full of War Stamps. He'll swap these valuable Stamps for every Electric Appliance or Appliance Cord you bring in, regardless of condition.

Appliance manufacturers have "gone to War" . . . which means Appliance Dealers are without even a limited supply of new appliances to sell those who really need them. Yes, many others less fortunate than you, are being forced to "keep house" without the benefit of even a single toaster, iron, percolator, or vacuum cleaner.

It's up to you. Hunt out those old appliances you've forgotten were around . . . broken or otherwise . . . and rush them to your Electric Dealer. He'll do the rest.

"IN WAR ANY WASTE IS CRIME"

Asks Subsidy For Strong Post-War Merchant Fleet

Senator Urges That Nation Avoid 'Stupid Performance' After Last War

By ELLIOTT HAYES

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Sen. George L. Radcliffe (D-Md.) demanded that a government subsidy be used to give the United States the world's greatest merchant fleet after the war.

At the same time, Radcliffe said that careful provision should be made now so that this country is assured of the return to it of "every ship borrowed by Great Britain and other Allies for war-time use."

"The United States should not again, repeat the stupid performance of the past and permit its merchant fleet to dwindle away," Radcliffe said. "I am determined that it should not do so."

"In the past we have several times had great fleets operating the world over. Other nations, with their cheap labor and lowly paid crews, were able to compete successfully against us. Our leadership was lost because of our high standards of living."

"We can overcome this only by a subsidy or by government ownership and operation. I doubt if it would be well to destroy established private enterprise, consequently, unless someone can devise a better plan, the subsidy is the only way out."

Radcliffe pointed out that when the war ends, this country will have a shipping fleet superior in tonnage and quality to that of any other nation in the world, and thoroughly prepared to handle world commerce.

Library Bulletin Lists Committees

Librarians Here Serve With P. L. A. Adult Education, Membership, Planning Groups

In the July newsletter of the Pennsylvania Library association, of which Miss Alice Sterling, New Castle librarian is president, is listed P. L. A. committees. Editors of the newsletter are Miss Sterling and Miss Dorothy Hall, P. L. A. secretary and Sharon Librarian.

Among Lawrence county residents who are serving on P. L. A. committees are: Adult education, Miss Rose Barber of New Castle public library staff, and Mrs. Catherine M. Charles, Ellwood City librarian. Mrs. Charles also serves on the membership committee, and William J. Caldwell, of the local library's board of trustees, is a member of the planning committee.

In all, there are more than 75 librarians and bibliophiles throughout the state serving on 17 different P. L. A. committees. The National Defense committee of the organization has been dissolved, its duties having been taken over in part by the American Library association.

of a settlement in Lawrence county by the name of Welsh Banks. Some cursory investigation revealed a vast lack of knowledge of such a spot but we've located it. Welsh Banks, or Welsh's Mine was located on the Wampum-Koppel road, about 1 1/2 miles from Wampum, according to Jonathan Jacobs a reader of Ellwood City.

Mr. Jacobs is an old time resident of Lawrence county and says that the mine was operated prior to about 60 years ago. He recalls the family of John Edward Jones, concerning whom the query was made, and it develops that Mr. Jacobs family lived across the road from the Jones. The Jones family lived in one of the five company houses of which nothing remains today but a pile of clay near the cement works.

Another small mining community near Welsh Banks or Welsh's Mine was Picketown and that is another new one to us. Picketown went the same way Welsh Banks went, probably because the coal vein was worked out. And so now, if anybody asks you where Welsh Banks was located you can tell them.

CONTRACTS AWARDED

Two contracts were awarded by the county commissioners on Saturday morning. The Universal Printing company of New Castle was awarded the contract for the ballots for the September primary at its bid of $12 per thousand. Four other bids were offered, one by the Grove City Publishing company at a price of $12.75 per thousand, one from the Globe Printing company of New Wilmington at a price of $13.75 and one from the Commercial Printing company of New Castle at a price of $27.55 per thousand. The first bid on ballots was rejected when it was opened and the bid was re-advertised.

The contract for the coal for the court house and the annex for next winter went to the Boyles Coal and Supply company at its bid of $4.25 per ton for stoker coal.

The bid for five inch lump for the Aiken building on Pearson street and the County Home was rejected and will be advertised again. The price bid, $6.30 per ton was considered too high.

Home Is Supreme Educating Force, Authority Asserts

(International News Service)
CINCINNATI, Aug. 2.—"The home is supreme among all character-building agencies," in the opinion today of domestic relations Judge Charles W. Hoffman, who has occupied that bench continuously 28 years.

Announcing that the records of 33,000 divorce cases handled by his court in that time are now available to research students working on family studies association with post-war social programs, Judge Hoffman observed that the family is the "unit of society" on which rests our social and political futures. "No agency or individual can so efficiently interpret our culture and our accredited ways of life to children and adolescents than the father and mother in the home," he declared.

OCD NOTES

Activities Of OCD Workers Are Outlined Here

City OCD takes this opportunity to thank all members of OCD who helped on the Deshon hospital benefit Friday evening. Those members that sold tickets, and assisted with the work at the stadium. It was greatly appreciated by all concerned. We again say "thanks."

In past notes in this column we have asked group leaders to mark stirrup pumps with post numbers. In some cases this has not been done. We have also asked the wardens on leaving these stirrup pumps throughout their sector, to have these pump tanks filled with water. We have found tanks that have neither been marked nor filled with water. We would like to have them all marked and we shall have to insist that they be kept filled with water at all times. This is very important.

City OCD warehouse still has a quantity of helmets, gas masks, stirrup pumps and auxiliary fire equipment on hand for issue, to the various groups. If you do not have the above named items for your group, kindly contact this office and procure same. Those warden posts needing more stirrup pumps, make your request known—we have plenty for you.

Englishmen went to bed Sept. 2, 1752, and when they got up next morning they found the date had been set as Sept. 14 by calendar authorities. Guild leaders, the labor organizers of that day, tried to get 11 days' pay for their members, for time lost overnight.

Weekly Income Gains Slightly

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2.—The weekly income of Pennsylvania factory workers advanced slightly in June to a new high average of $44.61, a gain of 18 per cent over the past year, it was reported today by the Federal Reserve bank of Philadelphia.

The number of wage earners rose to an estimated 1,250,000, the largest reported in recent years, and wage disbursements advanced to a record high of $50,000,000 the bank stated. Compared with June 1942, employment showed a gain of four per cent, payrolls 23 per cent and employee-hours 10 per cent. The largest increases were reported at munitions plants.

Fists Fly As Cards Kayo Dodgers Twice, 7-1, 5-4

General Chaos Nearly Breaks Loose; Sewell Annexes 17th For Bucs

Walker Cooper Belted By Mickey Owen In First Game Of Fiery Twin Bill; Pittsburgh Loses 10-Inning Fray To Braves, 6-3, But Sewell Even Accounts 7-1; Phils Dunk Cubs, 4-1, 5-3; Etten's Three Homers Spark Yanks To Double Conquest Of Tigers; Washington Sets Record, Piles Up 20 Runs Against Browns.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The Dodgers can do everything but improve their position in the National league race. They can stage revolts; swap players in inexplicable deals; row with constituted authority and bicker with the front office, but they cannot win the 1943 flag.

This was proved yesterday when the Bums tangled with the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game of a double-header. Fists flew, Catcher Walker Cooper was whacked while engaged in general combat and both teams came dangerously close to making the chaos general as the Cards won that embattled game, 7 to 1, and then went on to take a comparatively peaceful nightcap, 5 to 4.

Cooper Is Belted

The tempest occurred in the sixth inning. Tempers were hot after Umpire Al Barlick warned Pitcher Les Webber in flipping them too close to Stan Musial's head. Walker Cooper bounced out to Billy Herman after this little flare-up, and made the unpardonable mistake of unnecessarily stepping on Augie Galan's foot at first base, making no apology for same. Mickey Owen then leaped upon the catcher and brought him to the ground. Cooper being belted in the pious, meanwhile, by an early Brooklyn arrival, indiscipline punching then followed, and both teams brawled in the manner of a hockey riot. After the dust had settled and the two major participants were parted, both were dismissed from the premises with a curt demand for more gentlemanly demeanor in the future and probable fines in the offing.

Rip Bags 17th

Elsewhere, things were plodding along at a placid rate. Rip Sewell pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7 to 1 victory over the Boston Braves after the Bostonians had taken the first contest, 6 to 3. Sewell limited the Braves to three hits in gaining his 17th victory, while Jim Tobin gained credit for the opening triumph in 10 innings. The Cincinnati Reds executed seven double plays in taking both ends of a twin bill from the hapless New York Giants, 5 to 3 and 3 to 2.

The Chicago Cubs suffered a setback in their march toward the pennant in another of yesterday's flurry of double defeats, as they dropped two to the Philadelphia Phillies, 4 to 1 and 5 to 3. Kewpie Barrett, an ex-Cub, set back his former clubmates in the opener, and Al Gerheiser twirled the night-cap victory.

In the American league, the New York Yankees strengthened their grip on the lead with twin victories over the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 4 and 2 to 1. Nick Etten batted his mates into both triumphs with three homers, while Bill Dickey and New York also obliged with circuit clouts. The Boston Red Sox dropped the opener to the Cleveland Indians 8 to 6, then bounced back to take the afternoon, 4 to 1. Al Smith was given credit for the opening triumph, although he was chased from the mound in the seventh.

White Sox Nab Two

The Chicago White Sox swept both ends of a double-header with the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 1 and 15 to 3. Buck Ross held the A's to eight hits to win his eighth game of the year in the first game. The second game was a free-scoring scorch, with the A's knocking Johnny Humphries out of the box with six runs in the third inning, and the White Sox bouncing back to knock four pitchers out of the box with 17 hits.

The Washington Senators swept both ends of a double-header with the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 3 and 20 to 6, to regain third place. No Washington club in history has ever made 20 runs in one game.

Cozy Corners Win From Ramblers

Cozy Corners defeated the Ramblers in a postponed league contest at Washington field Saturday evening by a score of 9-0. Latent slaughter lurked in the no-run contest, fanned 14 men. Sliver and J. Zeigler each homered for the winners, and each had a double besides. Green had two fine catches in the field.

Score by innings: R H E. Cozy Corners... 110 007 0-0 9 1. Ramblers... 000 000 0-0 2. Batteries—Cozy Corners, Latent-slaughter and Zaron; Ramblers, Rhodes and Bonner.

Bill Cox Muffed Ball By Not Hiring 'Babe' As Phillies' Manager

By LAWTON CARVER

INS Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—In Fred Fitzsimmons, the Philadelphia Phillies have obtained a manager who is one of the finest characters in baseball.

No man who has played baseball with him or against him and no man who has known him off the ball field can honestly say more or less than that Fitzsimmons is one of those rarities who come along in sports—a tough competitor, a great team guy, but with a gentleman in all that the word implies.

Real Tough Fighter
Despite his surface gentility and seeming easy-going attitude about everything, he is a real tough fighter.

So the Phils have obtained in Fitzsimmons as successor to Bucky Harris a potentially great manager. But I want to just show you how dumb Bill Cox is.

No man who has played baseball with him or against him and no man who has known him off the ball field can honestly say more or less than that Fitzsimmons is one of those rarities who come along in sports—a tough competitor, a great team guy, but with a gentleman in all that the word implies.

Harris Rough, Too
Then reportedly Harris, the essence of gentility himself, also a thoroughly tough hombre, reported-

I think Mr. Cox muffed one here.

(International News Service)
SCRANTON, Aug. 2.—The University of Scranton's football team was thrown for a loss today by the war.

'Harris Failed To Cooperate,' Bill Cox Says

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2.—Bucky Harris was dismissed as manager of the Phillies because he refused to cooperate with club officials, President Bill Cox insisted today.

In an eight-page statement defending the startling action by the board of directors in appointing Fred Fitzsimmons to replace Harris as manager after the team slumped from fourth to seventh place, Cox declared:

"During the course of a meeting with several members of the board of directors July 12 Harris referred to his players as 'those jerks' and depreciated the value of coaching them to iron out evident but comparatively minor faults on the playing field with the flat statement that he had no intention of running a 'school for ball players'."

"When he (Harris) was asked whether he thought anything could be done to revive the splendid spirit which the players had shown during the early part of the season, he stated that he did not know what the trouble was and confessed his inability to do anything about it."

Cox took the opportunity to say that he did not tell Harris that his job was safe after the board of directors actually had decided to fire him.

"In Pittsburgh I did tell him the subject was discussed at another meeting," Cox said, "and I added, 'you're still the manager.' I did not tell him no change would be made."

Garden Park Raises Jockeys' Riding Fees
CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 2.—Garden State park today became the first racetrack in the East to increase the riding fees of its jockeys.

Through an amendment to the state racing rules, jockeys riding winners henceforth will receive $25 where the value to the winner is $750 or more, and all other riders will receive $15. The previous fee was $25 and $15.

Pvt. Joe Randall, who handled Pvt. Jimmy Wilson in the first bout Friday remarked: "This appears like one of those crowds when Willie Davies fought at the bowl." Randall was a good colored fighter.

Intercollegiate football at the University of Scranton has been abandoned for the duration, Rev. John J. Coniff, director of athletics announced today. Man-power shortage and other problems caused the decision, he explained.

LEONARD HEADS UNITED CIRCUIT
Members of the United Engineering Football league have elected Frank "Shorty" Leonard as president of the circuit, it was announced today.

At the same time, the loop coach Don Edgar, Simmons, "Tip" Richards and Tony Cioffi as the advisory board.

On Booker T. Washington field tonight at 6 o'clock the Morgents and Edgars meet in an important set-to. Bishara will lose against the Morgents while Lapovsky has been given the pitching assignment for the Edgars.

Iowa Pre-Flight Vacation 'Rough'
(International News Service)
IOWA CITY, Iowa, Aug. 2.—The three-month period of rugged athletic and intensive academic and military training at the Navy Pre-flight school at the University of Iowa today was being supplemented by a "short-vacation."

A score of "held-over" naval aviation cadets have established their first "beachhead" on the pine-covered shores of Lake McBride, state park about 15 miles northeast of the pre-flight school, and are "roughing it."

The "vacation" program provides advanced woodcraft training to induce the prospective naval flyers to living under the severe conditions frequently necessitated in their calling.

Groups from each battalion departing from the pre-flight school will spend the period of waiting for their orders to primary flight bases in a similar manner. Lt. Comm. Fielder Jones, executive officer, said.

KELLY VERSATILE
Mike Kelly, owner of the Minneapolis baseball club, has been a player, manager and club executive in the American Association from the day it started.

EAT WELL
Patrons of the Milwaukee Brewers are good eaters and drinkers. They spend on an average of 56 cents a game. That is said to be a national record.

JOHNSON FASTER
Bob Johnson certainly isn't any younger this year but he has already stolen nearly as many 1943 bases as he did in the previous three seasons.

BALL STARS FOR UNITED STATES NOW

TWO OF THE MOST PROMISING young baseball stars in the country, Bill Wright, left, and Bill Rigney, center, report to the officer of the day at the St. Mary's pre-flight school in California to get their watch duty instructions. The officer of the day probably would rather give the boys baseball instructions, however, for he is Charley Gehring, former Detroit Tigers' star and now a lieutenant in the Army Air Forces. Wright has won 11 straight games for the pre-flight team, and Rigney is a former Oakland star.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Some fans wondered why Tom McMahon, former heavyweight, did not appear as a referee Friday night in the Deshon hospital benefit.

In fact the writer also wondered why Big Tom did not come from Cleveland, Saturday afternoon McMahon telephoned and said that Joe Tuna, Cleveland sportsman, had picked up the letter sent to Tom, intended to expedite his delivery and forgot to give it to McMahon until four a. m. Saturday.

Jack Metz, Pittsburgh, trainer of boxers, who was here Friday is an ex-glass blower. He is almost 70 and recalled Buck Lyman and other who followed the glass blowing trade.

Pvt. Joe Randall, who handled Pvt. Jimmy Wilson in the first bout Friday remarked: "This appears like one of those crowds when Willie Davies fought at the bowl." Randall was a good colored fighter.

Intercollegiate football at the University of Scranton has been abandoned for the duration, Rev. John J. Coniff, director of athletics announced today. Man-power shortage and other problems caused the decision, he explained.

Survey Shows 87 '42 Vets Available For Pro Grid Loop

Steagles Lead League With 14 Old Hands; Cardinals, Detroit Have 23

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(International News Service Sports Writer)
CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Just in case you had come to care in a noteworthy way, everything, as of now, is progressing satisfactorily for the National Football League.

Today, an official survey of known and established assets shows 87 veteran players of the 1942 season available—and the player limit of each of the eight clubs to be 100 per cent subscribed.

Far from being a casualty of the war manpower situation, danged if pro football might not even prosper because of it. Anyway, this: briefly is the veteran-player situation when broken down to individual clubs.

Steagles Have 14
The Philadelphia-Eagles merger leads with 14, followed by Detroit with 12, the Chicago Cardinals, 11, New York, 9, and Brooklyn 7—these outfits being cited because they, in particular, were presumed to have very little left except the mortgage and a night watchman.

Washington Redskins: Sammy Baugh, and a lot of good reliable deckhands—Farkas, Hare, Wilbur Moore, Seymour Davis, Farman, Wilkin, Masterson, McChesney and Vic Carroll.

Chicago Bears: They have Luckman and Turner and the T-formation, it being possibly not always appreciated just how much the center means to that system. They also have Ray Nolting, Clark, McLean, Gary Famiglietti and a few more.

Green Bay: Isbell zone and Hudson showing every sign of wanting to take a Seidlitz while he still has his health. They'll probably talk him back. Other good notes: Berze, Ray, Lou Brock, Craig, Joe Laws, Andy Uram and Ted Fritsch.

Legion All Stars Defeat Keystone

With McCallion scattering seven hits and fanning eight, the American Legion All Stars defeated the Keystone A. C. at Ryantown field Sunday afternoon by a score of 7-2.

Tanner had a triple for the winners and Liebenroeder, Caravalle and McCallion contributed doubles, while F. Wimer had two doubles for the Keystone.

A return game with the Keystone will be played at Lehigh field on Thursday evening and Sunday afternoon the strong Fannin team will be met at Lehigh field.

Score by innings: R H E. Keystone A. C. 000 010 001—2 7 0. Am. Legion... 010 022 20—7 8 2.

Batteries: Keystone, Panella, Barlett and Zaron; American Legion, McCallion and Shriver.

Forest Cubs Win From Ryantown

In an American Legion Junior league game, the Forest Cubs defeated Ryantown Juniors by a score of 4-0 Friday night. The game was called at the end of the sixth inning because of darkness.

Both Vanessa for the Cubs and Davis for Ryantown were stingy with their hits, errors accounting for most of the Forest Cubs runs. Hills had two hits for the losers, while Fontanello of the Cubs had the only extra-base bingle, a double.

Score by innings: R H E. Ryantown Juniors 000 000—0 3 4. Forest Cubs... 102 010—4 2 2.

Batteries: Ryantown—Davis and Pietro; Forest Cubs—Vanessa and Zona.

TRIO PITT STARS MAY ENTER STATE

STATE COLLEGE, Aug. 2.—Pitt. No. 1 football rival of Penn State, may provide Coach Bob Higgins with a trio of good football players this fall.

Bill Kyle, Jim Mariades, and Jim Coules are the former Panthers assigned to Penn State as Navy V-12 trainees. All three are Marine reservists.

Kyle is an end, Mariades a guard, and Coules a center.

Navy Athletes Can Not Play With Pro Clubs

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The navy department today placed new restrictions on participation of naval personnel in athletic contests.

With the exception of athletic teams of the United States Naval Academy, teams representing naval activities are forbidden to play with professional teams unless the contests take place on the home reservation of the navy club.

Navy teams may play opponents only from within same area as designated by the National Collegiate Athletic Association in its zoning of the nation.

No individual or team is permitted in any case under the new regulations to participate in any activity requiring absence of 48 hours or more exclusive of air transportation, from navy duties.

Bowl Tits Barred
The navy directive bars the participation of navy teams in bowl or similar contests and denied individuals in the navy who have been or are prominent in sports from taking part in athletics away from their station except as members of a navy team.

Students enrolled in the college V-12 training program may not engage in extra curricular activities during the first year and after that they are restricted to intercollegiate athletics as representatives of the college to which they are assigned and not the navy.

The 48-hour limitation on absence applies to V-12 students as well as to other naval personnel.

Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel, has been designated the final authority in the decision of questions arising from the new directive.

EVANSTON, Ill.—Fifty-eight women golfers are registered to start in the Women's Western Golf Tournament which will be held in Evanston August 9 to 14. Mrs. Russell C. Mann, of Omaha, winner of the event in 1933 and 1941, headed the list of entrants.

Potters Upset Indies, 8-2; Elders Nip Moose, 8 To 7, In Fast City Loop Battles

"Ev" Laitinen Chokes Indies' Offense; Potters' 7-Run Surge In Second Feature; Majeski, Ross, Latimer Pace Winners; Baker Raps Four Hits For Pottery; Elders Tie Game In Ninth, Cop In 10th To Move Into Second

Thrills and surprises were as free as air yesterday as City Baseball league foes hammered away in quest of the second half championship. The Shenango Pottery, with "Ev" Laitinen on the knoll, shattered the Lawrence Indies, 8-2, on Mahoning field. On Lee avenue field, the Elders punctured the Moose's tie balloon by grabbing an 8-7 ten inning non-

Tally Seven Times
The last place Potters spotted the first half kings a two-run edge in the second. Getting as hot as a mid-August sun, the Shenango outfit touched home plate seven times in the second. Laitinen fed the Indies eight straight "meat balls" to give his mates their first triumph of the second half.

Majeski, Ross and Latimer, with three hits to their credit, swung the heaviest bats for the Potters. Baker rapped a double and three singles for the losers.

"Monk" Rainey pitched an odd game, whiffing 11 batters but yielding 16 hits.

Pushing across a marker in the tenth, after deadlocking the count in the ninth, the Elders dumped the Moose to move into second place.

Gunnett Winner
McCullough took the found for the Elders but gave way to Manager Dory Gunnett. Combined, the twirlers gave up 13 safe socks. Grundy and Frigione shared pegging duties for the league leaders.

Nelson, Raymond and Hall spearheaded the winners' offense with eight hits; Coulter and Thomas starred for the Moose.

The lineups:

BUCKNELL GRID OUTLOOK BRIGHT

LEWISBURG, Aug. 2.—Bucknell university gridiron hopes appear brighter today with more than 60 husky hopefuls reporting for practice under Coach John J. Sitarsky. Many of the candidates, Navy V-12 students, have had gridiron experience with many of the nation's top schools.

FAIR OR FOUL
By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Hitler and Hirohito can make it tough for us to get a beef stew and make it practically impossible for us to put a steak on the table, but there are some things the bums can't take away from us. Things that will still be ours whether the war lasts another month or another decade.

One of these is the thrill of watching our sports heroes in action. It is true that our big guys in the sports page headlines are getting scarcer and scarcer. There is no secret about the difficulties of sports, some sports, to carry on. But we always will have something to cheer about. Hitler and Hirohito wouldn't understand that.

"Babe" Reminder
I am reminded of this by that recent occasion when Babe Ruth came back as manager of a combined Cleveland-New York baseball team in an exhibition game and was cheered by 30,000 wild fans.

That's the American way, a sort of silent partner of the four freedoms we hear so much about.

At that moment, the first of one B. Mussolini was approaching. Finish of Hitler and Hirohito was coming a little closer too. We've got and will continue to revere guys like the Babe in our own silly sort of way as the thing is looked upon by those re-makers of the world abroad.

They should have won this war on a basis of their own cold calculations. We went to bat trailing in the ninth with two down and a couple of strikes on the batter. But that was when we started to making some runs for ourselves and that inning is still on. Talking about a rally!

Exhibitions Over
You remember when Hitler's first team was running wild? Poland and Czechoslovakia and the rest of those early season setups. What Hitler didn't know then and is just now finding out is that those spring exhibitions don't count. What really matters is how he lays into the ball when the chips are down with the championship at stake.

That's where we come in. We're the guys who stepped in there with the game about to be lost and played it back into a tie and now are watching a big guy at the plate with the sacks loaded. Or perhaps we are watching our pitcher come in there with his high hard one in the clutch.

You can put it any way you want to. The point is we win the close ones and the tough ones.

MUGGS AND SKEETER

WE THOUGHT WE'D DO SOME FISHIN' AND RELIEVE THE STRAIN!

AND WE FIGURED IT MIGHT BE A GOOD IDEA IF YOU HIRED MR. BROADFOOT TO MOW THE LAWN!

YOU KIDS HAVE GOT SOMETHING THERE, BUT I'M GOING TO IMPROVE YOUR IDEA! YOU BOYS GO AHEAD WITH THE LAWN AND I'LL HIRE MR. BROADFOOT TO DO THE FISHING!

BRICK BRADFORD—Beyond the Crystal Door

HAVING LEFT LOBSTER ISLAND FAR BEHIND, BRICK, JUNE AND SANDY NOW FIND THEMSELVES APPROACHING A RANGE OF GREAT, STEEP CLIFFS, WHICH BAR THEIR WAY—

HOW'LL WE EVER GET PAST THOSE?

WE'LL FIND A WAY, COME ON!

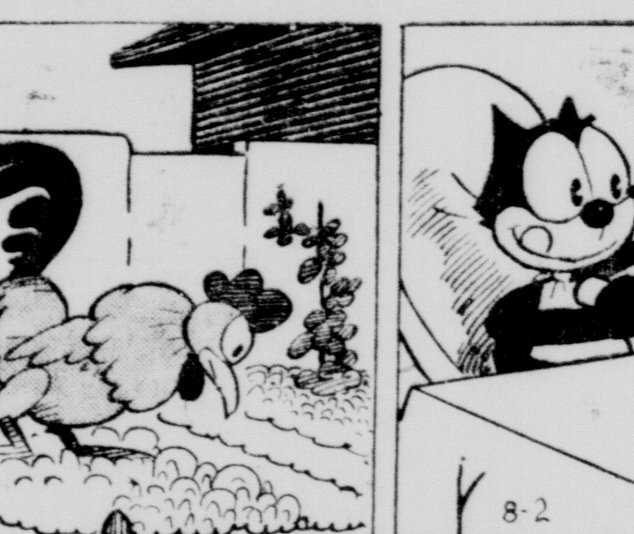

FELIX THE CAT

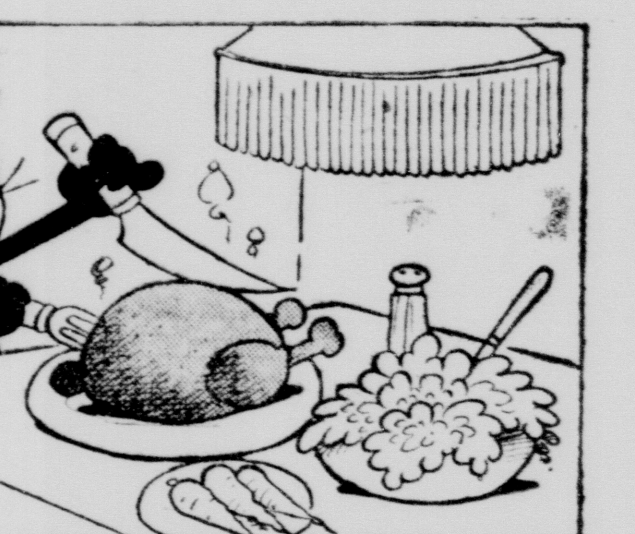

LIMITED FARE!

OK, BUT WHY THE HURRY?—OOOPS!

HEY! LOOK! I FOUND AN AXE! A MAN-MADE AXE!

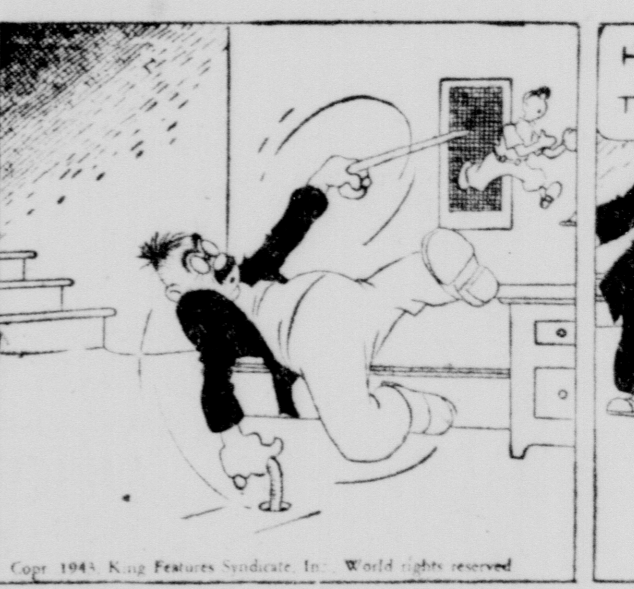

BRINGING UP FATHER

YEAH—IT SOUNDS LIKE HE'S DRIVIN' NAILS IN THE WALL!

HAVE YOU GOT ANY MORE TRICKS?

OF COURSE, YOU AREN'T. BUT I'M SCARED FOR YOU—I WANT TO BE SURE YOU'RE WHERE YOU'LL BE SAFE—

TRAVEL ORDERS

GEE, I HATE TO HAVE YOU GO BACK OUT THERE, "DADDY"—

BUT I'M TERRIBLY PROUD OF YOU—

OH, I'M ONLY DOING WHAT I CAN, THE SAME AS EVERYONE ELSE IS DOING—

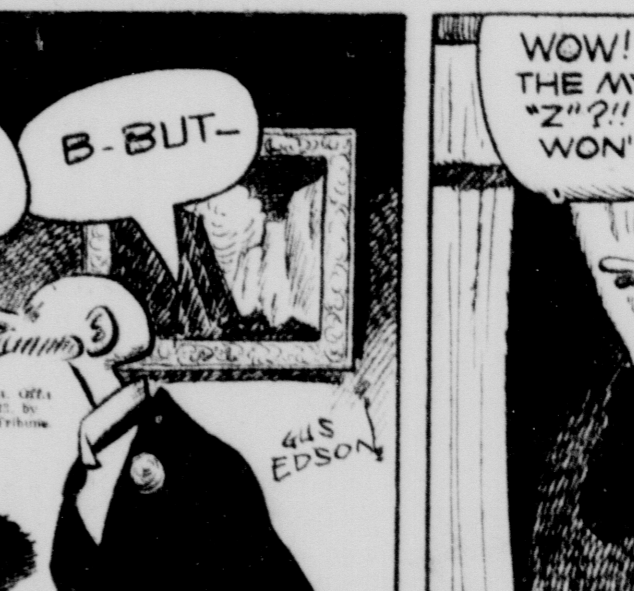

PEEPING ANDY

SHH! SHE'S OUTSIDE IN THE TEAROOM

SOME DAY, YOU'LL KNOW ALL, ANDY—BUT FOR NOW, JUST REMEMBER THE THREE WISE MONKEYS—HEAR NOTHING—SEE NOTHING—SAY NOTHING—

B-BUT—

American Air Lines Up 3 Points; Opening Is Irregularly Lower

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The stock market attempted a fractional recovery today from the sharp break of last week and, under the leadership of motors, rails, and aviation, the list firmed shortly after opening irregularly lower.

Although fractional gains were the general rule, American Air Lines was up over 3 points at one time. United Aircraft also had support with an advance of almost a point.

General Motors was up over a point while in the rails, Atchison, Pennsylvania and Southern Pacific rose major fractions.

Coppers were steady as were foods, rail equipments and utilities. Rubbers, steels, farm equipments and oils were mixed. Leaders bucking the higher trend included American Telephone, Standard Oil of New Jersey, U. S. Steel and Pullman.

The bond market was fractionally higher.

Hull Flays Petty Bickering Within Allied Countries

American, British Armies Should Have Assistance Of People, Instead

ANSWERS TALK ABOUT U. S. DELAY IN ITALY

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today emphatically declared that the American and British armies should be given every possible assistance by the people of those two countries in fighting the war and not be hamstrung by petty bickering.

Hull made this statement in a testy retort to a question at his news conference over reports that some quarters in England had expressed concern over what they termed America's dilatoriness in dealing with Italy.

These quarters, according to the questioner, had felt that Gen. Eisenhower's decision not to bomb Italy further last week after Premier Mussolini was ejected from his office as head of the Italian state, had delayed measurably our delivering a knockout blow to Italy.

Hull retorted firmly that the principal problem before the United States, Britain and all the United Nations at this moment and henceforth until victory is won is for our military forces to be given every opportunity and assistance to fight the war and not be hamstrung by the raising of petty differences on subjects which the persons may not be well informed.

Society Girls At Buck Hill Falls Help Save Beans

(International News Service)
BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa., Aug. 2. Some 120 sub-debs, their parents and other guests at the Buck Hill Falls Inn today temporarily laid aside their vacation plans in order to save 2,000 bushels of beans from rotting for lack of farm labor.

W. P. Starkey of Starkey Farms, about 15 miles from Buck Hill Falls, told Judge James Gay Gordon of Philadelphia:

"I just can't get enough labor to pick those beans."

The jurist immediately called Charles M. Thompson, manager of the inn, and between them they recruited vacationists from the beaches and golf courses. The volunteers included:

Judge Gordon's wife and their daughter, Betty; Sebastian S. Kresge, head of the 10-cent store chain; Charles Jenkins, president of the inn, and a large group of society girls.

"They'll be paid 50 cents a bushel," Starkey said, "and a good picker should gather 12 bushels a day. But they'll be lucky to harvest half that much."

Four Are Dead In Harlem Riot

At Least Eight Persons Are Shot During Outbreak
In New York

HUGE FORCE OF POLICE ON JOB

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Death toll in the Harlem rioting which started unexpectedly last night, today mounted to four as sporadic outbreaks of violence continued.

Scores of persons were treated at hospitals and more than a hundred arrests were reported. Stabbings were frequent and at least eight persons were shot, including a patrolman. Most of those hurt, however, were struck by flying bottles and stones, several were clubbed.

Rioting Starts
The rioting flared late last evening after a patrolman shot a Negro military policeman when the latter interfered with the officer's arrest of a Negro prostitute and struck the patrolman with his own club.

All vehicular, subway and elevated traffic throughout the area was ordered halted by Mayor Fiorella H. LaGuardia who made a radio appeal to the milling crowds to disperse and return to their homes.

The wave of disturbances were precipitated when patrolman James Collins shot the soldier, Pvt. Robert Bundy, in an altercation in the Braddock hotel.

A crowd of colored residents swiftly gathered as word of the shooting spread throughout Harlem like wildfire and by the time Bundy was taken to Sydenham hospital several blocks away, the throng had swelled to an estimated 3,000 persons.

Sends Help Force

Mayor LaGuardia immediately marshalled all police and firemen in the city, normally off duty at midnight and ordered them to remain available until further notice. More than 600 policemen were assigned to active duty in Harlem. In addition 40 squad cars filled with officers patrolled the Harlem. Groups of patrolmen in squads of five endeavored to break up small bands of teen age youths who took advantage of the tension, roamed through the neighborhood and broke windows in homes and stores.

The area was declared out of bounds for all service men and the order was enforced by army military policemen from Fort Jay.

Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, revealed he requested army officials at Governor's Island for both white and Negro M. P.'s to police the area.

Several milk bottles were thrown shortly after the disturbances started, one striking a woman on a Fifth avenue bus. Two members of the British merchant marine were attacked and pummeled by roaming Negro youths as they left a Harlem theater.

The entire area bounded by 110th and 145th streets and Fifth and Eighth avenues, home of thousands of Negroes, was closed to traffic by orders of Mayor F. H. LaGuardia who personally went on the radio to appeal to residents of the district to cooperate with police.

There were no organized disorders and most of those injured were struck by flying bottles and stones. Several were clubbed by policemen as gangs of youths, mostly in their teens, began hurling stones at store and house windows.

Many store windows were broken on 125th street, the section's leading shopping center, and their contents strewn over the street. Soldiers from Governor's Island were rushed to the area and patrolled the streets in jeeps and other army cars.

Teacher Shortage Not So Bad Here

County School Heads Find
Many Other Communities
Worse Affected

While there is a shortage of teachers in the rural sections of Lawrence county, the situation is not as bad here as in many other communities. County Superintendent of Schools John C. Syling stated today, on his return from State College, where he and Assistant Superintendent Roy E. Conway were in attendance at a conference of school heads from all over the state.

While there have been a number of vacancies in the county schools this year, there have also been a number of applicants for jobs. Syling stated, and it is hoped that when the term opens all of the places will be filled.

NEWS AND VIEWS AT CAPITAL

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 2.—Gov. Edward Martin has expressed a hope to bring the annual conference of governors to Harrisburg before his term expires. The chief executive attended the last one, at Columbus, O., where Republican governors "looked over" G. O. P. Presidential possibilities. One of the drawbacks to making a bid for the conference, the governor said, was the lack of state funds to defray expenses. Such a difficulty could be bridged, however, by a legislative appropriation.

The Martin administration has embarked on a program labeled "reorganization of departments" which is nothing more than firing employees, many of them veteran workers. No other administration in recent years has forced out so many so-called career men as the current one. In many instances employees were "reorganized" out of their jobs because they continued on the Capitol payroll during the regime of former Democratic Governor George H. Earle.

The state game commission has inaugurated a program designed to aid Pennsylvania victory gardeners and at the same time benefit sportsmen. The commission has expanded its rabbit trapping program to save the crops of amateur gardeners. The rabbits are transported to areas where they can do little damage. The commission said employees have trapped more than 133,000 rabbits since the program started in 1937. Victory gardens, the commission said, totaled approximately 750,000 last year, while the number this year was estimated at more than 14,000,000, placing Pennsylvania in the forefront nationally.

An eight-member sub-committee of the joint state government commission has launched another study of partial unemployment compensation payments, although there has been no assurance that Pennsylvania will adopt the system. Several studies of partial payment systems in effect in other states have been made, but nothing ever resulted from the work. Rep. David P. Reese (R) Dauphin, chairman of the sub-committee, has decided to contact labor and industry representatives to ascertain their viewpoints. In past meetings labor has endorsed the scheme, but some industrial leaders voiced vigorous opposition. Reese stated the committee probably would meet early in September to digest information supplied by the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, Industry and Labor.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 2.—Gov. Edward Martin's prediction that the Republicans will win more than 50 of the state's 67 counties at the November 2 election, disclosed that G. O. P. leaders expect no substantial change in the present political alignment despite claims of declines in Democratic enrollments. Republicans control approximately 56 of the counties now and if registration totals are any guide there will be little change. Despite the war registrations have not declined on a scale to cause alarm. In 1941 Republicans enrolled 2,644,339 against the Democrat's 2,022,076. Last year, when Pennsylvania elected a governor, the G. O. P. registration was 2,603,104 compared with 1,948,372 for the Democrats. The net change was approximately 114,945 registrants.

Outside of the statewide contests for superior court judge between incumbent Judge Claude T. Reno, Republican, and Judge Curtis Bok, Democrat, of the Philadelphia orphans' court, the only other contests of interest are in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. The Republicans hope to overcome a Democratic registration majority and win Allegheny but G. O. P. leaders are not too hopeful. In Philadelphia, Democrats have pinned their hopes on William C. Bullitt, former ambassador, for mayor against incumbent Bernard Samuel. Democrats concede that if Bullitt fails to break the Republican's 60-year hold on Philadelphia, they'll have little chance of success in the near future.

The Pennsylvania game commission has lashed out against a proposal by U. S. Sen. Pat McCarran (D) Nevada to conserve wildlife on public lands claiming it would restrict and endanger sports men's hunting privileges. The commission termed the proposal a "triple threat" against conservation principles. "Threat one makes it possible for certain federal officials, at their discretion, to take over absolute control and permit hunting, trapping and killing, in numbers to be determined by them, of game animals of either sex on any public lands or reservation in the United States," the commission stated.

"Threat two provides for the issuance of federal licenses to citizens of the United States without regard to residence" and exempts the holders of such licenses from the observance of state laws. "It was added, 'Threat three, as the final blow, permits the sale of game animals.'...Commenting editorially on the proposal in the game news, the commission stated: 'Even though it may have been presented in good faith, the fact nevertheless remains that no sportsman, no matter what part of the country he hails from can afford to permit this bill to become law. It would take from the states their long-standing right to control the upland game on any federal lands within their borders.'

BRIEF NEWS OVER STATE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 2.—Accidents among workers in the United States showed casualty rates on the battlefield, according to the Pennsylvania planning board. They number more than 2,000,000 a year. In Pennsylvania alone during May 11,051 industrial accidents were listed.

LOCK HAVEN.—Robert F. Rich, of Woolrich, will be a candidate for congress again. He accepted a bid by Clinton county Republicans to run for election from the new 15th district. He formerly represented the dismembered 16th district.

LEWISBURG.—An athlete from Pennsylvania State College, who is now assigned to a naval unit at Bucknell University, was asked by Bucknell athletic officials in a sports questionnaire where he wished to compete in intercollegiate sports. He replied: "Not Not enough time, and besides I wouldn't play for Bucknell anyway." The two colleges are traditional rivals.

STATE COLLEGE.—There were only 12 students in the first class to graduate from the Pennsylvania State College. That was in 1862.

CHESTER.—For the first time in many years Democratic voters in Chester will be unable to vote for city officers in the September municipal election. No Democratic candidates filed petitions for mayor or other city posts.

GETTYSBURG.—The first monument authorized by Battlefield Cemetery authorities since 1938 is now in place at historic Gettysburg battlefield. It marks the spot where Battery B, famous artillery group from Lawrence County, fought.

OTTVILLE.—Gen. Simeon Timoshenko hurls back Nazi blitzes as part of a day's work, while his uncle, 47-year-old Andrew Simeon Timoshenko, combats the American food problem on his 100-acre Ottsville farm. The Pennsylvania farmer corresponded regularly with his nephew before the war but this halted when the conflict opened. Only through the newspapers did he learn that his nephew had become a general.

CARLISLE.—Jap airmen are bum shots, according to Lt. Col. Leon S. Eagleberger of the army medical corps who returned to the United States after eight months in New Guinea. Of the many ships coming into Port Moresby, the Japs hit only one, he said.

TUBERCULOSIS

Tuberculosis is an insidious disease. That means that it sneaks up on you.

Usually when a person has it, he does not know about it for quite a while.

The disease may develop to a considerable extent without causing any symptoms.

The patient may recover from it and never know about it. A person gets it from some person or animal infected with it. That is the only way of getting it.

A person may carry the germs in his body for a long time before showing signs of disease.

That is one reason why it is so hard to trace where infection comes from.

Persons who have tuberculosis should be trained to take proper precautions.

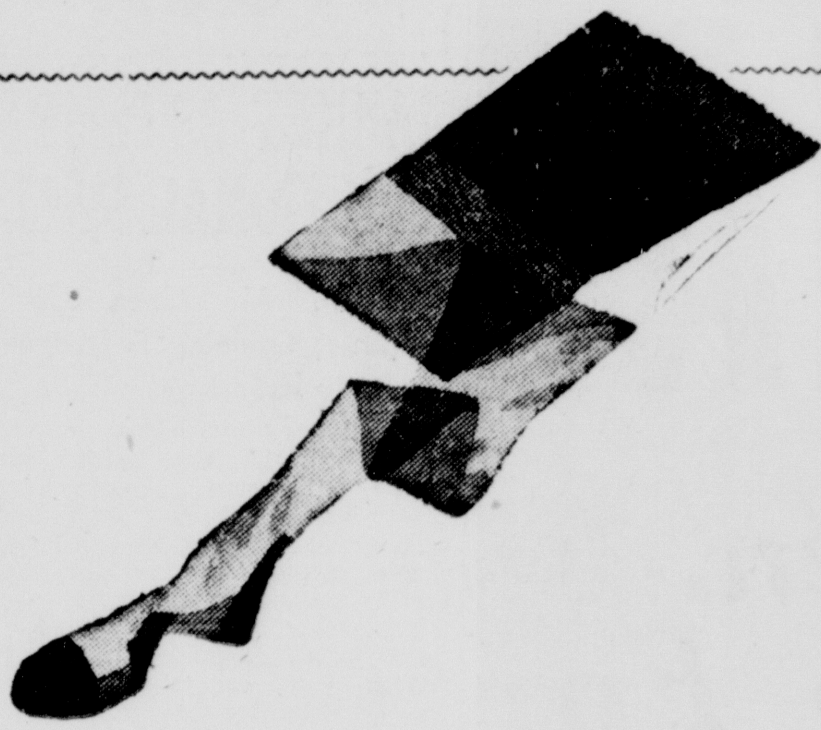

The best place for a tuberculosis patient is a sanitarium. He gets good care. His family and friends at home are not exposed to infection from him.

When he gets well he will find that home is the best place on earth.

Big Money Offered

Winner Of Draw For Tail-

By RICHARD HALLER
(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)
SEVENTH AIR FORCE HEAD-QUARTERS IN NORTH PACIFIC
July 30.—(Delayed)—A marine captain offered $1,000 and others offered a month's pay for the opportunity to take part in last Sunday's raid on Wake Island.
That was the story told today by

Col. William J. Holzapfel Jr., of Racing, Wis., commander of a task group.
Holzapfel said that a Liberator tail-gunner, stricken with appendicitis, knew there were plenty of marines who were eager to take over his assignment. He received many applications for his berth and finally the names were put into a hat.
Sgt. William C. Campbell of Denver, Col., won the draw, whereupon he received many cash offers to sell his seat as substitute tail-gunner, including a flat offer of $1,000.
He refused them all, took part in the raid and shot down a Jap Zero near the target. He also engaged several other Zeros in combat and confirmed the destruction of two planes shot down by other flyers, thereby enhancing his usefulness and showing the complete cooperation that exists between all fighting services at the fighting front.

General Chennault Announces Great Jap Losses In Chinese Theatre
(International News Service)
CHUNGKING, Aug. 2.—The "most productive week" since the United States 14th Army Air Force took over from the A. V. G. in China was hailed Saturday by its commander, Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chen-nault.
Recounting the terrific losses dealt out to the Japanese in the last seven days, Gen. Chennault said:

"I hope the Japs continue to attack our bases in waves. It brings the targets right to our front door."
The Japanese casualties were set at 61 planes definitely destroyed, 47 probably destroyed and seven damaged in air battles, while another seven were destroyed on the ground in American attacks.
"Most of the 'probables' actually were destroyed," Gen. Chennault said.
American pilots in China still are fighting against odds of four and six to one, he said.
In addition to the havoc dealt to the Japanese air force, American planes sank seven vessels totalling 34,000 tons and damaged four others totalling 25,000 tons, using only 74 tons of bombs in the process.
The Netherlands comprises an area of 13,600 square miles.
